(International News Service)
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 12.—W. F. Heidergott, 54, instructor in practical mechanics at Purdue University here, was injured seriously today when a bomb that had been placed in his automobile exploded as he stepped into the car preparing to go to his classes at the university.

The bomb blew the car to pieces, knocked the roof off the garage, shattered windows in surrounding houses and injured the left side of the instructor's face.

He was rushed to St. Elizabeth's hospital where Dr. P. B. Thompson performed an emergency operation. His condition was pronounced as serious.

Blast Rocks Houses
The blast rocked houses for five blocks in the vicinity and was heard a half a mile away.

The scene of the explosion was in a garage at the rear of the Frances Reitermeier home where Professor Heidergott kept his automobile. He roomed at the home of Mrs. Ella Moynihan, and had walked to the garage, a block and a half away from the Moynihan home, just before the mysterious explosion.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Every time it rains, the farmers of Lawrence county, particularly those who have much stock are hopeful that it will keep it up for a week or so. Loss of farmers of the county have been hauling water for some time past, and it will take considerable rain to fill up their wells and start the springs flowing again.

Don't tell me Christmas is not close at hand. When the clubs and classes begin to announce their exchange of Christmas packages it is time to "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early".

During the parade, Tuesday, the lady standing in front of Pa New complained that a stream of water coming from the umbrella in front of her was dripping down on her nose. "But the parade is worth it," she sighed.

Window panes and roof edges of the Bethany Lutheran church, corner of East Washington and Lutton streets, were being painted the other day when Pa New passed by. Makes a difference.

Two young nephews of Capt. Harvey G. Blintrin, commander of Troop F rode ponies in the Armistice Day parade. They were James and Herbert Blintrin, of the Butler road, aged six and nine respectively.

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—Undismissed by the flurry caused abroad by publication of the charges, the Soviet government will proceed immediately with the trial of eight prominent Russians charged with participation in an alleged international conspiracy to overthrow the Soviet regime.

The 25,000 word indictment prepared by N. V. Krilenko, Soviet attorney general, alleges a widespread military and financial plot against Russia, and among the 2,000 persons named as having connection with the conspiracy were former Premier Poincare and Briand of France, Sir Henri Deterding, multi-millionaire British oil magnate, and Colonel T. E. Lawrence, the famous "Lawrence of the Arabs."

In accordance with a long-standing Soviet policy, the trial will be public, in order that all Russia may know how man suspected for counter-revolutionary attempts against the government are dealt with.

Official and semi-official newspapers throughout Russia published the huge indictment in full, devoting thirty solid columns of their space to do so. The charges were so complete and detailed that the attorney general's office found no necessity for verbal augmentation.

NOT SEEN SINCE BESSEMER GAME

No Motive Can Be Explained
For Sudden Disappear-

(Special To The News)
SLIPPERY ROCK, Nov. 12.—Although state police and friends have conducted an intensive search since last Friday, not a trace has been found of Robert Hines, aged 17, who mysteriously disappeared following the football game between Slippery Rock and Bessemer high schools in which Hines had been one of the stars.

Young Hines, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hines, has not been seen since 6:30 Friday evening, and considerable anxiety is being felt over his continued absence.

No explanation can be advanced by friends or relatives for his failure to return home after the game. When he had not returned to his home by Saturday afternoon, and none of his closest friends had remembered seeing him since shortly after the game, state police from Butler were called into the case, but they too have been baffled in their search for him.

Talked To Principal

Principal A. B. Denniston of Slippery Rock high school stated this morning that he talked with young Hines following the game. Friday as is his usual custom, inquiring into the condition of the various players. "Are you all right, Bob?" Mr. Denniston asked when he greeted the youth in the dressing room after the game. "Oh, they can't hurt me," was his casual reply.

Mr. Denniston stated that he had questioned the classmates and closest friends and inquired into the most intimate happenings in the boy's life over the past month, and has failed to find any reason why he might have left of his own accord.

Both Hines' teammates and the school officials state they are certain he was not injured during the game, and could not have wandered away because of some injury which might have affected his brain.

The lad, who played a guard position on the team, has been one of the outstanding players all season. He is five feet 10 inches tall, of fair complexion and weighs about 150 pounds.

When last seen, he was wearing a blue suit, powder blue overcoat, and light gray hat.

Memorial to the deceased service men and women of the World war which opened the evening's program last night at the Cathedral, in connection with the Armistice day celebration, was in charge of the Lawrence county unit, Women's Overseas Service league and proved one of the features of the evening and a most touching tribute to the service men and women who have passed on.

Prior to the presentation of the memorial, Gladding Wibert, who had conducted a half hour organ recital, struck up the Star Spangled Banner as the lights of the Cathedral auditorium were darkened and the spotlight was thrown on a gently waving American flag.

As the curtains were drawn, the audience experienced a thrill as it saw in the center of the stage a finely executed replica of the tomb of the unknown soldier with flags of the allied nations at either side, and the flag of the Red Cross at the fore part of the stage. Beauty of the scene was added to by two wreaths and plants and other decorations.

To either side of the tomb was grouped members of the Overseas Service league in their Red Cross (Continued On Page Two)

Declaring that its supporters must awaken or they will lose the fruits of their "great victory," he said:

"A large group of those demanding prohibition repeal are actuated by mercenary motives. Restoring the tax on liquor might reduce taxes on incomes, and a look behind the scenes indicates this to be one of the chief reasons why millions are being spent to promote the wet cause."

"Education must be continued, publicly for prohibition results to be secured, and the truth brought to the public, along with the fact that numerous referenda are illegal and meaningless."

Organization Of General Assembly In 1931 Discussed By Politicians

PINCHOT MAY NAME GOODNOUGH

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—Organization of Pennsylvania's 1931 general assembly took front row rank as a topic of speculation in political circles here today as the last wisps of smoke from the 1930 fall campaign were wafted away.

Political seers here concede that a stiff fight is brewing over selection of speaker of the House although no outward signs of a struggle have been noted.

When Gifford Pinchot took office eight years ago for his first term as governor he named with little if any opposition his own candidate, Representative C. J. Goodnough of Cameron county as speaker.

A combination of the Vane-Grundy-Mellon forces midway in the Pinchot regime usurped control of the House, however, displaced Goodnough and elected Thomas Blount as speaker. The latter now holds a judicial post in Philadelphia.

Only tentative candidacies have come forward for the post to date. Goodnough and Robert S. Spangler, of York, both former speakers, will sit in the House when that body assembles in the spring.

Referring to the unemployment Taber said:

"It is a tragedy for any nation to have on one hand great wealth, abundance of money and burdensome surpluses of food, and yet on the other hand unemployment, hunger and want. America dare not allow her sons and daughters to lack for food and the necessities of life in the face of luxury and abundance on every hand."

Steps Necessary.

He listed the following steps as necessary to accomplish the economic readjustment:

Stabilization of values, a higher price level for farm commodities, more justly-distributed burden of taxation, extension of the federal farm loan system, readjustment of the nation's freight rate structure.

Taber described the federal farm loan act as "the most constructive legislation of recent years to benefit agriculture." He also urged that the federal farm board "be given full chance to demonstrate its usefulness."

He also injected a word about the activities of Communists in this country. "Americans rate communism," he said, "and if this situation is met in a patriotic manner America can kill, for this generation at least, any danger from the Red forces."

Jeff Klink, the town dry goods merchant, was in the habit of keeping a store of his stock in his basement. Adjacent to his store were some vacant lots. Presently the owner of these lots decided to build on them and he contracted with a number of firms to do the different jobs, such as excavating, masonry, plumbing. So the construction on the new building was started.

A pipe coming down from the roof of the new building was supposed to carry off the rainwater, but due to some oversight of the contractor doing the brick work, it had been left unfinished and the water it was supposed to carry off fell to the ground near the basement in which the dry goods merchant kept his stock. In addition, the sidewalk in front of the property had been constructed defectively and the water it shed also got to the basement.

One day it rained heavily and the sidewalk and water pipe sent the water against the merchant's basement in such volume as to flood it and ruin his stock. He filed suit against the lot owner who was having the building erected. At the trial the lot owner pleaded that he had sublet the work to different contractors, and therefore could not be held responsible.

The indictment alleged the men worked in direct collusion with French officials and prominent European industrialists and financiers in development of the conspiracy, which it was said was to have been climaxed by military invasion and overthrow of Soviet Russia.

French Indignant PARIS, Nov. 12.—Angled astonishment and indignation were expressed in official circles here today over the sensational charges made in a Soviet Russian indictment of an international conspiracy to wreck the Soviet regime.

The charges that high French officials had conspired with Russian Malcontents to undermine Soviet business and industry and then embark upon an anti-Soviet war specifically named Raymond Poincare, France's war-time president and former Premier and Aristide Briand, now minister of foreign affairs.

Official spokesmen took the attitude that the allegations were not worthy of a denial, but M. Poincare was quoted as saying that the charges were "pure invention." He added that to the best of his knowledge there never had been talk of armed intervention in Russia.

Only a few Paris newspapers printed news of the indictment and none commented editorially. French officials considered denials virtually useless because of France's strict policy of aloofness from the internal affairs of Soviet Russia.

British Press Comments. London, Nov. 12.—The British press today branded as "wild and ridiculous" the charges made by N. V. Krikenko, Soviet attorney general, of an international conspiracy to undermine the Soviet regime.

The majority of British industrialists named in the indictment issued emphatic denials. Sir Henri Deterding, multi-millionaire petroleum magnate, declared he had "no direct or indirect knowledge of any such plot."

Leslie Urquhart, also named by the Soviets, declared that "the whole thing is an absolute invention and not worth refuting."

Crop Conditions In State Not Bad

Despite Long Drought Crops In Pennsylvania Are Holding Up Well

CORN HARDEST HIT BY DRY WEATHER

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—While drought-stricken 1930 will undoubtedly be set down as one of the most disastrous to Pennsylvania farmers in the state's history, crop conditions are not as bad as was anticipated, according to the November survey of the State Department of Agriculture.

The survey, issued last night, shows that some crop yields, with the exception of tobacco and feed crops, were above average while others were not far below normal.

Corn was hardest hit by the drought, according to the survey and this year's crop will average only 32.5 percent of normal, lowest in the history of the State Department of Agriculture.

Hay production was 20 percent below average and buckwheat hit a new low mark of 57.6 for the five year average from 1924 to 1928.

Wheat, oats, barley and rye, however, were above average, the survey shows, and the bulk of the fruit crops will also be better than average. Potatoes will yield better than anticipated while tobacco will be but 74.9 of the five year average crop.

Yield and quality of the tobacco crop, the survey reports, are the lowest on record with many tobacco fields not worth harvesting.

Favorable harvesting weather in October, the report states, aided many crops and helped pull up the average yield to normal or better.

STAR LORE

THE DISCOVERY MADE BY DOPPLER

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter

When a star is seen to be approaching the observer, or receding, as indicated by the shifting of the lines in the spectrum toward the violet end, or toward the red, the line shift is known as the Doppler effect, because the principle was discovered by the scientist, Doppler. The shifting lines radiated from a luminous gas of low pressure display as bright lines in the spectrum. Every chemical element brought to a state of radiant gas produces a spectrum with its own distinctive lines. No two elements are alike. But to distinguish the shift of lines of an approaching or receding star, a comparison spectrum from a stationary flame is used to make the shift of lines noticeable.

Dr. Urmson was born in Sharon, Pa., January 16, 1870, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Urmson. As a young boy, he came to New Castle with his parents. Through the friendship of the late Dr. E. A. Donnan, he became interested in the study of medicine and prepared himself at Washington and Jefferson College, Graduate School. He attended Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia of which school he is a graduate. Returning to New Castle he became associated with Dr. Donnan and until the latter's death, they practiced in the same offices.

In National Guard

Some years ago Dr. Urmson became interested in the affairs of the Pennsylvania National Guard and was commissioned in the medical corps. During the trouble with Mexico in 1916-17, Dr. Urmson served at Camp Stewart, El Paso, Texas, with the guard, holding the rank of major. In addition to his private practice of medicine he was the surgeon for the Carnegie Steel Company, New Castle Works.

In 1906 he was united in wedlock to Miss Ruth Lehmer, who survives him. Also surviving him are two brothers, J. Russell and Harry C., both of New Castle, and one sister, Mrs. W. P. Fitch, also of New Castle.

The funeral services will be held at three o'clock Thursday afternoon, November 13, from the Urmson home in Maitland Lane with the services in charge of Rev. Philip C. Pearson, rector of Trinity Episcopal church of which Dr. Urmson was a member for many years. Friends are requested to omit flowers.

The passing of Dr. Urmson removes another citizen this county can ill afford to lose. He had friends because he was a friend, he loved life not so much for the sake of living, but for the sake of doing for others.

were the staunchest defenders of the country and its ideals and really built it up."

Deal Out Justice.

"The best way," he said, "to prevent a recurrence of such catastrophes as the World war that tend to destroy civilization, was to deal out justice to the ex-service men of the recent war, their widows and orphaned children."

In the legislation approved by the last congress, he said, "some provision has been made to care for the disabled former service men, but not for the widows and orphans."

He stated that in the next congress, he expected to be either chairman of the veterans relief committee or floor leader.

"I pledge myself," he said, "to the program of relief started last session. The boys are now dying at the rate of 72 a day and many of them are without adequate help in their time of need, which might prolong their stay here."

"I still favor a law that will declare all former service men eligible for all possible government assistance, and whose ailment developed prior to 1920. That is to say that all who have become affected or incapacitated in any way prior to that year, shall be considered as having become so through their service in the World war."

"So long as I live it shall be my aim to prevent ex-service men who have become disabled from being among paupers of the street and to prevent their widows or children from begging from door to door. Before I see a disabled man or his family in that shape, I will first pin on Andrew Mellon a wound stripe that can be seen from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia."

Government Must Provide.

"It is up to the federal government to provide for these persons and I shall fight at the next session of congress to have the compensation rates for World war veterans brought up to the level of the provisions of the Spanish War Veterans law."

Declaring that the country was now passing through the greatest period of depression that it has experienced in a hundred years, he then went into detail as to how the very wealthy people of the country in 1927, through false cries of poverty, finally persuaded the ordinary people, including the former service men, to purchase stocks which they had, at the highest prices and which have not become deflated to such an extent that the great majority of the people have been deprived of a billion dollars in deflated values of the same, while the rich, who disposed of them, have become relatively more wealthy.

He then spoke of the fact that there had been income tax refunds to the amount of $700,000,000 made in the past few years, the justice of which he doubted and that the debt funding commission had spread the debts of other nations to this country over a 42-year period and at an interest rate approximately 1 1/2 percent under that actually paid by this country, while the ex-service man could not get his just dues. He said the losses sustained by the government in these transactions would be more than pay any just compensation that could be given the former service men.

He spoke of the excessive percentage of the money appropriated for veterans relief through the Veterans Bureau, which went into overhead or expenses of the bureau and which should go to the veterans, using as a comparison the vast amount dispensed by the pension bureau and about equalities of the same, given through the veterans bureau at an overhead expense of about one-seventh that of the veterans bureau.

He stated that there would be a housecleaning in the veterans bureau. He said one of the ways to bring peace more rapidly to the country and world was by providing adequately for the veterans of the World war, who has been disabled or became ill through war service. Such fair treatment he said would do more to encourage the time when there would be a decrease in armament, a reduction of the army and a move toward world peace than anything else.

His whole address was, in fact, an indication of what he and other supporters of proper compensation for the disabled veterans of the World war are planning to do.

For the overseas women of Lawrence county we place these wreaths on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in loving remembrance of the men of all ranks who fought and died and of the women who gave their lives in service in the World war, remembering also those who fought and lived disabled for life.

"The red symbolizes the blood that flowed and the blue the faith in God and country. The lights were then dimmed and from the recesses behind the tomb there appeared the figure of a soldier clad as in 1918 and representing the unknown soldier and spoke to the living comrades of that war, Orville Potter took this part.

UNSKILLED SUFFER MOST

A FEW years ago it was quite generally believed that the tramp was virtually extinct in the United States, human derelicts being then encountered only in city boweries. Prosperity, employment for all and high wages for the unskilled and untrained were given credit for driving these parasites out of the country. Now we know the credit was not misplaced.

The down-at-the-heel are mainly native Americans, past 40 years of age, unskilled, unmarried and unemployed. Of 14,000 questioned in a survey in New York City, more than 10,000 were unskilled laborers, 22 per cent skilled laborers, three per cent officer workers, and three-tenths of one per cent, or 48 men, described themselves as doctors, lawyers, preachers or teachers.

Much significance must be attached to the predominance of unskilled laborers among the homeless and unemployed. It is of great importance in fixing the cause of vagabondage. There is a close relationship between homelessness and lack of skilled occupation.

Here is an impressive warning to the young man who chooses an uneducated and untrained career. Past the prime of life, jobless and homeless, men undergo a revolutionary change in their attitude toward the value of an education. Wiser heads discover their mistake before it is too late.

STUDENTS

American collegians and their self-sacrificing parents are frequently told that in Europe the term "student" is one of respect applied to those believed to be sacrificing themselves in obtaining an education, and that here the student is regarded as a clown wearing letters and dangling keys.

Some such uncomplimentary terms have been applied to the American college man, but most Americans have been under the impression that in Europe, from the days of Francois Villon to the present, the student has been regarded as a hearty young fellow, addicted to wine, women and song, delighting in turbulence and claiming by ancient tradition the right to chastise the police whenever he was so disposed. He obtains an education, to be sure, but by the process of sacrificing everybody else to the great objective; as for himself, he has a thundering good time.

Perhaps, it would come nearer the truth to say that a student is a student the world over. At least the foreign students studying in the United States are indistinguishable from the native product in conduct. The popular impression of a student is a distorted one. The public only sees him at his worst. During his studious hours, which greatly outnumber the uproarious, he is cloistered in his room or classroom. Like all men, he is known for his "moments."

SCULPTOR OF THE SOUTH

In the chapel at Washington and Lee University lies the marble figure of a sleeping soldier. The right arm rests across his chest and the fingers of the left hand lie where they have fallen on the sword hilt. Visitors speak softly as they stand before the prostrate form. Art students study the expression of character on the sculptured face. It is the recumbent Lee, a work which in itself would entitle Edward Virginius Valentine to a place of prominence among American artists.

A consistent adherer of commercialism the 92-year-old sculptor, who died the other day in his beloved Richmond, belonged to the old classicism of the South.

When he was a boy in Richmond, Edgar Allen Poe was there editing the Southern Literary Messenger. Lectures by Dickens and Thackeray to Virginia's aristocracy, he remembered them, and the songs of Jenny Lind. Thomas Jefferson, Stonewall Jackson, Jefferson Davis, Jeb Stuart, Albert Sydney Johnston—heroes of the South, were likewise his heroes and the subjects of his statues.

Not the least interesting thing about the white-haired old classicist was the fact that he kept a diary continuously from 1857—from the year of the Dred Scott decision and the laying of the first Atlantic cable, through the Civil War, the Reconstruction, the decades known as Victorian, through Roosevelt and the world at war to Lindbergh and Little America. A daily account for nearly three-quarters of a century. What a diary it could be!—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THAT SUB-CONSCIOUS OF YOURS

I'm fed up on my Sub-Conscious—and perhaps you are fed up on yours. Just as I'm fed up on mine. You know about the Sub-Conscious, of course. Everybody does, these days. Babies talk about it in their bassinets, children in their kindergarten, grown-ups babble about the Sub-Conscious everywhere. He's been in the limelight for years and years and years—and he's poiled!

He's a monster like that ghastly creature made by the young medical student Frankenstein, out of materials gathered in tombs and dissecting rooms. He's like the octopus with the beady eyes and the snaky arms and the muddying ways. He's a shark, a coracle, a jackal, and a slimy eel—and he's supposed to be US, supposed to be the Real Selves peeping out from beneath our cowardly masks.

You go along for 30 or 40 or 50 years, trying to be decent, trying to make people like you, trying to Do Better. People like you, respect you, think you're a Pretty Good Fellow. Sometimes even you begin to think you're a fairly good sort. And then you slip up. You do something, you say something, you make a bad mistake. It just happened, you didn't mean to do it all. But some amateur psychologist hops on your mistake with howls of unholy glee and velps to the whole world. "That's the Real You. You thought you could hide it, but you couldn't. Underneath all your attempts to be fair and square and honest and decent, you are vain and crooked and shy and mean—and don't you try to deny it. Your Sub-Conscious is showing. It's slipped down like a lady's petticoat in the old days, like your sock when the garter breaks. I can see it! And that Sub-Conscious is the Real You. Yuh! you hypocrite!"

Well, I don't believe it! We are all of us made of two people, walking around in the same skin. But neither is a Villain and neither is an Angel. They are just two parts of the human being, trying to get along together, trying to do the best they can. You try to be a grateful son, a fair father, a well-behaved husband and you ought to get credit for it. You don't deserve exile, sneers and catcalls just because you slip up occasionally. And I see no reason to assume we have a leering, lecherous, envious Under-self who is the real You and the real Me and the real Other Fellow.

I'm fed up on that Sub-Conscious. He was slipped over on us when we weren't looking. And I think it's time we handed him his hat and showed him the door. We can get along without him.

The World's medals for bravery: the Croix de Guerre, The Iron Cross, the Victoria Cross (V. C.) and the Distinguished Service medals have been awarded to men who, in most cases, would rather not talk about the events which led up to the bestowal of these baubles.

In fact the owners of the medals often make light of the affair to hide their real feelings as did a V. C. at a dinner given in London not long since. He told the story of the rescue of a wounded comrade. The disabled soldier was being carried across No-Man's-Land on the back of a perspiring comrade Rifle and Machine Gun fire was heavy. "Ere," suddenly exclaimed the wounded man, "who about turnin' rahind an' walkin' backwards for a spell? You're gettin' the V. C. but I'm gettin' all the blinkin' bullets."

Change In Party Alignments A Possibility In Great Britain

Speech From Throne Suggests Electoral Reforms Which Are Interpreted In This Country As Favorable To Liberals

Discouraging problems are believed to be ahead of the Labor administration in Great Britain, as a new parliament session is opened. Significance is seen in the statement from the throne, representing Premier MacDonald's position, in favor of "a measure of electoral reform." This is interpreted as offering the possibility of proportional representation with an opportunity for the Liberals to increase their strength. New alignments are believed possible, while it is thought by some observers that present difficulties are such that the individual parties may see no advantage in taking control of the government.

"I may occur to laborers," says the NEW YORK SUN, "that the position of embarrassment they occupy is not at all an enviable one, and that, for the time being, Conservatives and Liberals alike may prefer to mark time rather than risk a general election that would vote them into unwanted power. For the Conservatives, in particular, with the greater likelihood of winning a general election might prove particularly embarrassing."

"Once more the enemies of the Labor government are taking the bait," says the NEW YORK SUN, "the battle cry against the gray-haired Scot in Downing street, and once more they are afraid to push their advantage and oust the government. The CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, with the suggestion that 'they are afraid, because they haven't anything better to offer,' and the comment that 'meanwhile the king opens parliament with a speech, the keynote of which is, 'Cheer up, it might be worse.'"

"One statement in King George's address," according to the KALA MAZOO GAZETTE, "has led British political observers to suspect that the Labor administration would not be averse to a working alliance with the Liberals." "His statement was interpreted, naturally enough, as a hint of proportional representation." "Prime Minister MacDonald," continues the Gazette, "and his colleagues have usually been contented with an attitude of 'benevolent neutrality' on the part of the Lloyd George group, although at times they have found Liberal assistance extremely valuable. It is natural that under the stress of present difficulties, with the Conservatives bent upon toppling them from power at the first good opportunity, the Laborites should welcome any aid which the Liberals may be ready to lend. Unemployment, tariff problems and strained relations between Great Britain and India have added to the Labor administration's troubles."

"For the sake of a fairer representation," declares the SYRACUSE HERALD, "the Labor government has now given favorable heed to the long-continued demand of Lloyd George and his followers for a reform of the electoral process, or rather of the legislative appointment that will correct or diminish what they call a glaring discrimination. The principal plan urged by the Liberals is already familiar in continental countries and in some cities of our own country, as proportional representation." "When ever the proportional system has been applied in this country, it has revealed some strange and confusing results. Whether it is suited to the British temper remains to be seen. For one thing, it would be likely to encourage an addition to party groupings, after the fashion of the electoral complications on the continent. Again, it would give the Communists and other mischievous cults a parliamentary representation denied to them under the present simple system of plurality election."

The Liberal strategy," thinks the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER, "has been cautiously to bring the Labor party to consent to proportional representation in parliamentary elections, in return for a pledge of support on certain legislation in the present parliament. Lloyd George has been maneuvering in this direction, but he has failed to win any promise from MacDonald."

"The severe losses of the Laborites in the borough elections," explains the NEW YORK TIMES, "are encouraging to the Conservatives. At the same time they are a warning. Suppose that things go from bad to worse. The Labor government is turned out. The Conservatives come in, if the country swallows their infallible protection medicine. Then unless there is an unsuspected sudden revival of trade and diminution of unemployment, what comes of all their beautiful promises? Isn't it better to let Labor be the scapegoat?"

The feeling that, "during the present session of parliament, it is not impossible that the Laborite government will go out of office and that Stanley Baldwin will retire into private life," is impressed upon the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT, which observes that the latter "is being assailed by the die-hard of the Conservatives or by some of the more progressive elements of the party," and concludes: "He is disquieted with the attitude of his followers and while he may be disposed to meet some of their proposals, he will not condescend to be led into paths at once retrograde and reactionary. Reserved and peace-loving as he is, his spirit can easily be aroused when his independence of action is threatened."

The CLEVELAND NEWS agrees: "The Conservatives seem not to be in the best of form for taking the job of governing the empire," while the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL sees the possibility of "cooperation between the Laborites and the Liberal, not merely during the present just begun, but, more important still, in the general election which leads to the virtual extinction of the TON EVENING POST says that "a general election might very well return virtually the situation now existing, which would give Ramsay MacDonald a new but still a precarious lease of power for, perhaps two years more."

Misplaced Sympathy.

It is kinder not to say anything than to voice your sympathy to the parents whose son or whose daughter has gone astray.

The sorrow resultant is hard enough to bear without being compelled to listen to words of friend concerning it.

Words reopen wounds which may be in process of healing.

Persons who are personally interested in those who have left the right path experience some of their most intense pain when others allude to the infractions of their dear ones.

The sympathizer who uses words is usually the least sincere.

The truly sympathetic makes no reference to the subject that has caused sadness and despair.

He seeks by attitude of understanding, quietly going about and doing little helpful acts to alleviate the pain which is being experienced.

The person of wounded pride does not wish nor seek sympathy.

He does appreciate the presence of friends in whom he has most faith.

He hopes his friends will allow him to do as he pleases and will not expect anything of him.

Kind consideration will make no demands, but stand ready to serve.

Boy Falls To Ground At B. R. & P. Bridge, Sustains Minor Hurts

Edward Kresowary, 6, Rushed To Hospital By Policeman; Case Not Serious

Suffering only a bruise above the right eye, little Edward Kresowary, aged 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kresowary of 1006 1/2 Hanna street, is in the New Castle hospital today, hardly realizing that only a freak of fate permitted him to escape more serious injury, after his fall from the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh elevation on Moravia street, Tuesday afternoon.

Officer John J. Gols saw the little boy shoot from the top to the ground, a distance of about 25 feet. Young Edward was rushed to the hospital by the officer. Word of the mishap spread like wildfire in the neighborhood and the Kresowarys learned about it before Officer Gols had left the hospital. Hospital attendants reported today that the boy's condition was not serious.

THINK OF IT!—cod-liver oil in a form that children don't mind taking. It almost sounds unbelievable. And yet . . . We walked into Mrs. Palmer's back yard at 478 No. 4th Street, Newark, N. J., a few weeks ago. We asked her if she'd be willing to let her little son, Austin, try Scott's Emulsion. As she knows how hard it is to get children to take cod-liver oil, she consented gladly. Austin swallowed a spoonful. Then he smiled . . . "I like it, mummy. It's good."

Pleasant to take—but that isn't all. Pale, thin, run-down children—they need cod-liver oil. Give it to them the pleasant way—give them Scott's Emulsion.

Dry Commission Back In Session

After Short Recess Wickersham Commission Resumes Deliberations

HOPE TO AGREE UPON REPORT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—After a recess since Saturday, the Wickersham crime commission resumed its sessions today with no sign of an agreement on the prohibition issue in sight.

The commission continued its efforts to agree on a basis for a report to congress on the question which is expected to include recommendations concerning the Volstead Act or for some congressional action designed to correct evils growing out of prohibition enforcement.

Various members appear to be in accord on the desirability for something to be done about it, but no two of the eleven minds on the commission appear to be in agreement on just what to do and how to do it.

Saturday chairman Wickersham publicly announced no conclusion had been reached on the prohibition question. Rumors continued and yesterday the commission issued another statement on behalf of former Judge Kenneth Mackintosh, of Seattle, declaring "purely conjectural" a report that the commission would recommend prohibition be submitted to a constitutional convention. The report had referred to Mackintosh as having advanced such a proposal.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Three hith-hikers forced Brig. Gen. Robert M. Brookfield, 57, Commander of the 56th Infantry Brigade, Pennsylvania National Guard, to drive to a lonely spot early today and robbed him of $45 and speed away in his machine.

General Brookfield picked the trio up while en route home from the Armistice Day celebrations here. Hardly had he started his machine again when one of the trio pressed a pistol into his side and forced the General to drive to a lonely spot near Merion where he was robbed. In addition to being a commander of the P. N. G., General Brookfield is a World War hero and a professor at Girard College here.

Man Pleads Guilty To Murder Charge

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12.—John McNab, 48, pleaded guilty today to a general charge of murder in connection with the death of his common-law wife, Mrs. Mary Sweeney McNab, in criminal court. Additional testimony was taken in the case in order to determine the degree of guilt attached to the charge. McNab admitted that last July he had pushed the woman down the stairs in his home during a drinking quarrel. He held her in his arms for three hours until she died and later buried her under the front porch of the home. He covered the body with a mattress "because there wasn't enough dirt," he told the court.

Bo Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The head of an installment furniture house was complaining about business.

"Why," he said, "they've even stopped buying the stuff they don't expect to pay for!"

Many of the unemployed in Tammany Town have become apple sellers. On most busy corners, midtown and in the financial district, you'll see men and women disposing of their rags-checked merchandise. The market being glutted with apples this fall, the fruit men and the unemployed both benefit by the innovation.

The only persons who are in any way jeopardized are the physicians—and even their danger is problematic. It depends on the truth of the old adage that "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." If it's true, with the amount of apple-eating that's going on in New York today numerous Big Pills and Prescriptions may be forced into the breadline before the winter's over.

LACK OF SYMPATHY.

As usual, in a time like this, there are certain sleazy souls, with no love for, or sympathy with, their less-fortunate brothers, and who do their bit to swell the ranks of the unemployed, by firing lesser employees and then, lending their names to big public movements intended to relieve the jobless.

Firing some piking, unimportant employes, man or woman, because you have to dig into your surplus profits, or your own personal bank account, to pay wages, is a sorry way to relieve the temporary, existing gloom.

It's better to cut a man's salary than to throw him out upon the street. You say to a man: "You worked faithfully for me in prosperous times. Things aren't so good just at present; but I forget your past record. You take a little cut in salary now, and we'll weather the storm together."

Of course, there's no law compelling this sort of thing—only the non-sectarian law of heaven which says that: When once a person has come within the circle of your experience, you owe him a moral obligation.

A benevolent newspaper publisher in Tammany Town is staging a benefit at the New Amsterdam Theatre for the unemployed. Every performer in town—a lot of them recovering from long periods of "liberty"—has volunteered to appear.

The problem of obtaining musicians was left till the last. You can't run a show of that kind without musicians; and the poor musicians have had tough sledding for a long time. There are about 50,000 of them out of work and the business of going to those who are working, and making an appeal for outsiders, when so many in their own ranks are suffering, presented a neat little question of tact.

Sylvester Sullivan, master publicity man, who has undertaken the task of making the benefit click, having obtained the consent of union officials approached the men themselves with the proposition.

Before he had a chance to voice his request, they sensed the danger for his visit, forestalled it by volunteering their services and then capped it all by giving Old Man Sullivan a cheer that shook the foundation of every playhouse on Mazda Lane.

It wouldn't be fair, in this connection, to mention the musicians without saying a word for the stage hands.

Everyone knows the reputation the stage hands have for being hard boiled. They laugh over it themselves; but taken by and large, they're as human an aggregation as there is on earth.

Sullivan went to the stage hands and told them of the proposed benefit.

"We're not paying any money to anyone," he explained. "Every cent goes to the unemployed for whom the thing was devised. Will you volunteer a stage crew free, gratis, for nothing?"

Would they? They sure would and so informed Brother Sullivan, adding he might even go to the extent of waiving a vital portion of his anatomy on their willingness.

One touch of nature . . .

Rheumatism Means Pain, Says Doctor

Clendening Believes Laymen Confuse Medical Terms

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A large number of letters have been received asking about arthritis.

The use of the word "arthritis" indicates a change of fashion, and a change of attitude towards the disease. Twenty years ago the average layman would have called it "rheumatism."

Arthritis indicates that people generally think the changes are in the joints. They have gotten the word from the doctors of course. Twenty years ago doctors began systematically to condemn the use of the word "rheumatism." They insisted it should be confined to the acute infectious disease, rheumatic fever. Personally I prefer "rheumatism" to "arthritis."

Even doctors are not agreed about the classification of rheumatism or arthritis. There are as many varieties of the disease as there are Tom Thumb golf courses. Unlike the golf courses, they are increasing rather than disappearing.

The first great division you must make is between the acute and the chronic forms. Most of the acute forms are infectious in origin. Which means they are due to the presence of germs in the body. Such is "acute rheumatic fever," which affects children so frequently and plays havoc with the heart.

Many of the chronic forms are also of infectious character. Such are tuberculosis of the joints. Any disability due to poison or germs lighting in a joint from the teeth or tonsils.

The severe crippling, deforming, chronic arthritis, however, is probably not due to germs. It may be due to nutritional changes.

The treatment will be discussed tomorrow.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Four pamphlets by Doctor Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. Logan Clendening in care of this paper or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are "Infant Feeding," "Reducing and Gaining," "Instructions on the Treatment of Diabetes" and "Hygiene of Women."

Peter's Adventures

ONLY ECHO ANSWERS
After all, the little Black Ant had given her life for her people. She had been in the thick of the battle and wounded, had made her escape to give warning. Surely if she hadn't have been sure the Black Ants were getting the worst of it she would have stayed at the front. What did Peter really know about war tactics?

"I guess I'd better run back to the Ant Hill and give Busy the runner's message. Then I'll tell her the evidence of my own eyes and Busy will judge for herself which of us, messenger or I, is right." Peter took a last look at the fighting armies.

"Hey, hey!" Peter was startled. "Right now it does look as though the line of battle had moved a little nearer. If so, it means just one thing—that the Black Ants are outnumbered and are giving way. Now I am sure I must take no chances! Here goes! Peter started to go down the hill, and found it was harder climbing down than up. His foot slipped. He almost lost his balance and went tumbling headlong. At last Peter reached the bottom, and no sooner had his feet touched level ground than he was off like a shot.

Without stopping to reason where he was going, through the side gate of the Ant Hill Peter plunged. A dash through dusk corridors, around a corner, up a little incline, until at last, breathless, he paused on the spot where the thought he had left his friend. No Busy was there. Peter's breath caught in his throat.

"Busy, Busy!" he cried. The only answers were echoes. Peter's heart skipped a beat.

"Have I lost my way? Taken a wrong turning? If I have, will there be time to go back to the entrance and start out in the right direction?"

Next: "Busy is Busy."

Thorough cleanliness and sanitation will repay many times over in healthier stock which in turn means increased production. Scrub out the feeding and drinking dishes frequently with a solution of Carbola. Put some of the dry Carbola powder in the nests and dust the floors, roosts and dropping boards occasionally. Two Socialists In State Legislature

Reading Sends Two To Next Session At Harrisburg

From News Bureau State Capital
HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—Election of Darlington Hoopes and Mrs. Lillith M. Wilson, Reading, as Socialist members will give the State House of Representatives its first third-party delegation since the 1917 session.

Then the third-party member also was a Socialist, James H. Maurer, former president of the State Federation of Labor, now city councilman in the Reading socialist city administration.

Maurer has been the only member of the House who was neither a Republican nor Democrat since the Washington Party during the Roosevelt movement elected a number of members of the House in 1912 and 1914.

Various members have had Labor or Prohibition nominations to aid them in being elected, but they were members of the two major parties.

In 1924, Lee S. North, defeated for Republican nomination was elected to the State Senate as the prohibition nominee in the Jefferson-Indian district, but joined the Republican caucus upon taking office.

Study Suggestions To Aid Unemployment

Congressional Leaders Study
Suggestions To Prevent Future Depression

Immediate Relief For Vast
Army Of Unemployed
Will Be Initiated
By Congress

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Concerned over national unemployment, congressional leaders today were studying suggestions for state and federal unemployment insurance and old age pensions to prevent periods of economic depression.

It seemed certain congress would initiate an immediate relief program to care for the unemployed during the coming winter. But this will be but one phase of the problem requiring legislative action. Most congressional leaders feel an even greater phase will be established, a new safeguard against recurring cycles of depression.

Senator Wagner (D) of N. Y., author of three relief measures for the unemployed, announced he would introduce a resolution authorizing an inquiry into the subject of "unemployment insurance." Other senators are studying this subject too, and linking old age pensions to it.

Old Age Pensions
Unemployment insurance and old age pensions were an issue in several gubernatorial campaigns last week. In Industrial Pennsylvania, all three candidates for governor endorsed old age pensions.

Under the first plan, industry would deduct insurance to provide steady employment for their workers. Under the latter, the state would provide pensions for the aged unable to earn a livelihood. Congressional leaders, looking on unemployment as a national as well as state problem, have considered plans which would extend federal aid to the states in operating both relief proposals.

May Be Difficult
It might be difficult for the federal government to actually participate in any unemployment insurance program, but it could set aside an emergency unemployment fund for the employment of workers on federal projects during hard times. This would tend to reduce the cost of unemployment insurance in the states and lift a portion of the burden from the shoulders of industry. In meeting the old age pension issue, the federal government could participate directly with the states. Some system, as applies to federal aid-roads—in which the federal government shares half the cost of state roads—might be adopted, with the United States contributing to any state, setting up old age pensions.

The unemployment problem has aroused congress. A half dozen proposals have been made for immediate relief but the feeling prevailed congress probably must make an outright appropriation or relief funds, to be administered through the Red Cross or some other relief organization, to care for unemployed during the winter. All construction programs, it was contended, could not be carried out until spring while hundreds of thousands of citizens would need relief before that time.

Important Radio Decision Given

U. S. Circuit Court Of Appeals
Reverses Its Own
Former Decision

VACUUM TUBE PATENTS VALID

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Reversing its own decision of a year ago holding vacuum tube patents owned by the General Electric Company were invalid, and now ruling the patents are valid, the U. S. circuit court of appeals today handed down a highly important decision affecting radio and tube manufacturers.

The decision gave the General Electric firm an important victory over the De Forest Radio Company and will, if it survives an appeal to the U. S. supreme court, attorneys say, confer on the General Electric Company an almost absolute monopoly for the next dozen years over the manufacture and sale of the type of vacuum tubes now used extensively in radio receiving sets.

The decision also will enable the General Electric Company to recover enormous royalties against competitors who have been producing similar tubes during the five years the patents have been in operation.

Court Divided
The appellate court was divided two to one in its decision today. The controlling opinion, which covers 16 printed pages, was written by Judge Joseph Buffington and was concurred in by Judge J. Warren Davis. A dissenting opinion covering 22 printed pages was filed by Judge Victor B. Woolley, who took the position the patents are invalid. The patents cover inventions by Dr. Irving Langmuir.

The reversal of the court's stand on the patents is due to the fact that Judge Davis who sided with Judge Woolley a year ago holding the patents invalid, changed his mind after re-argument in the case. The patents are for what are known as "non-gaseous" vacuum tubes and defined a process for minimizing the use of gas as a conductor.

The decision is a reversal of the finding of Hugh M. Morris, former judge of the U. S. district court of Delaware, who dismissed the suit on the ground the patents were invalid. The decisions as they now stand find four judges of the federal appellate court divided on whether or not the patents were valid. Judges Woolley and Morris expressed the opinion the Langmuir patents were not valid, while Judges Buffington and Davis, ruled they were valid. It is a foregone conclusion the final ruling will have to be made by the U. S. Supreme court as the issue is of enormous importance to the radio industry.

In the evening, the number fed approximated twelve hundred.

Two Fined Result Of Auto Accident

William Jennings paid a fine of five dollars and John Aldridge is in jail in default of a similar fine, growing out of an auto crash at McKinley street and Mahoning avenue last night. They were arrested by Patrolman John Moore and Motorcycle Policeman Charles Augustine.

Policemen Moore and Augustine hurried to the intersection when a report stated that an auto had crashed into a telephone pole.

When they arrived the auto was there but the occupants had disappeared. They soon took Jennings and Aldridge in tow.

Jennings was intoxicated, according to police. He claimed Aldridge was driving the car and in turn Aldridge said another man had driven the car.

He didn't know who he was, so he said and the police could not locate him. In police court, Mayor Gillespie fined each $5.00.

No Thanksgiving Pardons In State

Pardon Board Meeting Is Postponed From Next Week

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—There will be no Thanksgiving pardons in Pennsylvania this year.
Usually at November sessions of the State Board of Pardons, lawyers plead to have their clients freed in time to spend Thanksgiving Day with their families.

This year the board has postponed its meeting from next week to November 25 and 26, which means the final cases will be argued late in the afternoon preceding the holiday.

Pardons are not granted until the board considered each case and presented written reasons to the governor in cases in which it recommends clemency. Ten days usually are needed to prepare the reasons for the governor, which means that instead of being freed by Thanksgiving Day, the fortunate applicants will get out of jail about two weeks before Christmas.

Wets And Dries Plan To Advance Many New Ideas

Reorganization Of Whole Dry Movement Is To Be Talked Over In Capital

NEW METHODS TO BE DISCUSSED

Both Factions To Gird Selves For Battle On 18th Amendment

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Reorganization of the whole dry movement and consolidation of the proposals of all wet bodies into one anti-prohibition program will be proposed at two national gatherings of opposing forces in Washington next month, in which both factions will grapple themselves for a fight to the finish over the 18th amendment.

The conference of the anti-prohibitionists is slated for December 8 and the dry meeting is on December 10, both coming just after congress meets for a short session expected to resume with oratorical fireworks on both sides.

Consider New Methods.
Denying the conference of prohibitionists has for its object the ousting of the Anti-Saloon league for its recognized position as the leading dry organization, dry leaders nevertheless said that a sharp revision in the methods of the movements will be considered.

The annual meeting of the conference of organizations supporting the 18th amendment will bring together representatives of about 30 organizations, including the Anti-Saloon league. It was formed two years after death had removed Wayne B. Wheeler, for years recognized emperor of the dries.

Among other proposals to be laid before the conference, it is learned, is the merger of many of the dry organizations into a super-prohibition organization.
There are more than a score of both wet and dry organizations in the field at the present time. The programs of the anti-prohibitionists range from outright repeal of the 18th amendment to modification of the Volstead act to permit 2.75 per cent beer and light wines.

LOW PRICES MAKE JOBS

Increased Buying Speeds
Wheels of Industry

ALL authorities agree that the best way to help business is to speed up consumption of goods. That sets idle wheels turning, increases employment of labor, and so adds to buying power. These same authorities agree that the best way to speed up consumption is to keep retail prices as low as possible. A&P does this in good times as well as in bad times. How this policy has worked in the present circumstances is shown by the fact that A&P is steadily adding to its payroll.

Today A&P is giving employment to 3,085 more wage earners than it did a year ago.

During the last year, because of the general slowing up of business, increases in salaries have been rare.

A&P has increased the average wage of all its employees by more than $50 a year.

The fact that A&P has been able to hire more workers and raise wages during hard times is due directly to its policy of cutting the retail price of food as fast as growers and producers reduce their prices to A&P.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Home Safety Is Learned At School

Parents And Teachers Working Together Gain Interest

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

My seven-year-old had just climbed in the car with me and I had reached for the lever to shift the gears when he said, "Oh, Dad, I forgot something," and out he went and back to the house.

After several minutes I followed him.

"Something must be signed here, Dad."

To his haste he was able to read a part of it. "I put my name down here. I guess it's right." The lad had signed where I was supposed to sign. I assured him that it would not matter, and I wrote a little note of explanation under his signature to the teacher. I was proud of his initiative, and he knew it.

Then he told me that he thought the paper said something about inspection, which I already had discovered. I had been struck by a blocked off statement on that paper: "Over 60 per cent of all fires in the U. S. occur in homes, which means that a home is burning every four minutes."

With fifteen minutes to spare we took the paper with us on our tour of inspection, but he had remembered virtually everything in the directions. We found a box of matches out of place and removed them. He collected a few scattered papers in the basement and found a greasy rag in the corner of the garage.

He took the matter very seriously.

As we inspected the flues leading from the gas stoves and furnaces he was much impressed, asking numerous questions. He walked about with me and talked with an air of confidence and grown-up-ness feeling. I am sure, that he was taking on some new responsibilities and that he really had a worth-while place in the world.

Riding with me to school—a good distance—he talked more about the safety matters and asked questions.

The teacher's emphasis upon this matter, talking about it in class, giving the pupils a printed slip to be brought home; his parents' interest in it, and their readiness to carry out the instructions on the slip to the letter—all made a very wholesome impression on the lad. If the school alone had given its instructions, or the home alone had done so, much good had resulted. But both working together brought about an interest in the boy which was remarkable. We parents may talk our heads off about matters of safety at home, to no avail. But if we take account of it in co-operation with the school, we may do wonders.

Many good attitudes and habits which we working alone cannot easily develop in our children, grow like weeds in them when properly implanted and cultivated in the school and home together.

Working together, the school and home can build for the ages.

Sidelights On Armistice Day Celebration Here

Yesterday was the ex-service man's day. They absolutely refused to be denied and some of them may have been a little bit disorderly but for the most part it was a good celebration all the way through, and is deserving of commendation to those who had charge, particularly General Chairman Louis B. Round, who has worked untiringly to make it a success. To him goes most of the glory.

W. Vane Ireland of Butler lost a pair of spectacles somewhere in the downtown section of the city yesterday while attending the celebration.

Emil Aubrey of Butler was one boy who attracted no little attention. Emil had a cannon which was not quite as big as the one Joe Trax used to tote around to all the veteran celebrations in years gone by, and it did not make quite as much as Joe's old brass boy did, but it made plenty enough noise, especially when the spectators was not looking for its report. Aubrey tried to catch them unawares to see everybody jump.

Fine cooperation was extended by the local police force and a detachment of state troopers from man's day.

Father Of Franklin Highway Traveled Road By Horeback

Section Near New Castle One Of Three To Be Improved

How he made his first trip over the route by horseback a quarter of a century ago, was recalled by John H. Williamson, of Findlay, O., father of the Benjamin Franklin highway, when he called upon local sponsors of the road.

Mr. Williamson, who is one of Findlay's leading realtors, was honored by being elected the first president of the highway association and is still untiring in his efforts to see his dream of a hard-surfaced thoroughfare from Atlantic City on the east to the Pacific coast become a reality.

"There are still three stretches to be improved," he said, "and then the highway will be completed as far west as Omaha. These stretches are: eight miles in Pennsylvania, beginning at a point a short way west of New Castle, a twenty-eight mile piece in Indiana and a thirty-three mile stretch in Ohio."

The stretch west of New Castle, he pointed out, is designated as route 317, which he deeply deprecates, as transients desiring to avail themselves of the national highway follow Route 422 through Butler as far as New Castle and then head toward Cleveland, under the impression they are actually traveling the Benjamin Franklin highway.

Several miles could be saved, Mr. Williamson pointed out, if they would follow the correct course, and utilize the eight-mile stretch which is incorrectly designated. He is desirous of having this link near New Castle designated as "Route 17" instead of 317, and is on his way to Harrisburg to confer with representatives of the State Highway department in an effort to have the change made.

This eight-mile stretch connects with Route 17 in Ohio, he explained, which is a continuation of the Benjamin Franklin highway.

The father of the national pike recalled that he was selling encyclopedias in 1905 when he travelled the entire route by horseback.

House Committees Begin Work Upon Large Supply Bills

Sub-Committees Begin Task Of Formulating Supply Bills For Congress

TASK TOUGH DUE TO ECONOMY TONE

Hoover Administration Has Made Effort To Economize Budgets

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The long-predicted "five billion dollar congress" approached today as House Appropriations subcommittees began work on the supply bills through which Congress annually provides the funds to maintain the government.

With appropriations of the last session totalling $4,872,016,000, and the administration prepared to recommend huge appropriations for public works to relieve unemployment, there is a strong possibility that the five billion mark may be exceeded, committee members say.

Is Tough Task
The committee members, however, approached their task literally "between the devil and the deep." The Hoover administration has made strenuous efforts through budget recommendations to economize, and prevent the treasury from going in the "red." On the other hand, there is pressure on all sides for huge sums to speed public works.

Chairman Will R. Wood (R) of Indiana was to return here today to start sub-committees on the interior department and the treasury-postoffice department bills on their work. The treasury department bill contains appropriations for prohibition enforcement, the budget recommentation is understood to call for a $2,000,000 boost for more agents. An appropriation of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to continue work on the Boulder Canyon dam project is included in the interior department program. Rep. Cramton (R) of Michigan, chairman of the subcommittee, said the suit of Arizona to halt building of the dam was not sufficient to delay appropriations. He pointed out that Arizona failed to ask the Supreme court for a temporary injunction pending final decision.

Expenses Increase
More than $50,000,000 will be voted by Congress under the regular program for public works, it is expected. Appropriations of this character last session included: Public buildings $59,000,000; new construction navy $57,000,000; rivers and harbors $55,000,000; Mississippi flood prevention $35,000,000; Sacramento flood prevention $1,000,000; good roads $89,000,000 plus a deficiency appropriation of $30,000,000; army housing $16,112,000.

Expenses of the federal government have risen in the last few years despite the economy drive. Appropriations since 1926 are:

1927 .....$4,409,463,389

Chairman Round Expresses His Appreciation

Introduced To Audience At Armistice Meeting At Cathedral Last Night

During the meeting at the Cathedral last night in connection with the Armistice Day celebration, General Chairman L. B. Round of the Celebration Committee was introduced to the audience by Attorney Glenn Berry and in a few well selected words expressed his appreciation of having been chairman and the co-operation accorded him.

His remarks were as follows: "The Twelfth Armistice Day and Tri County Armistice Day Celebration is over.

"We feel in our heart, that it has been a success.

"Never since Armistice Day 1918, has New Castle witnessed as large or colorful parade, nor one in which the citizenry so ably co-operated.

"To the efficient policing through the day, we shall ever be indebted to the State Police, the State Patrol, and our own fine body of men, the New Castle police force.

"Mingled with the joyful remembrance was a deep feeling of humility and of reverence which has pervaded the whole celebration.

"For the splendid co-operation of the visiting National Guard units, we will later more adequately express our thanks.

"For the co-operation and assistance rendered from whatever source, we are deeply grateful and to those who might have been unintentionally offended, we express our apology.

"Ex-service men of New Castle, of whatever rank or station, we salute you and frankly state that if the day has accomplished nothing else, it has effectively brought to the citizens of New Castle and Lawrence county, the high quality of latent leadership now ready to burst into flower.

"Your hands have been set to the plow, you know what can be accomplished. Let us strive in all our community efforts, as in this splendid day, to forget petty prejudices and personalities, and work earnestly for a friendly city, a better city, a better state and the most glorious nation in the world.

"Let us strive in humbleness of heart and earnestness of endeavor to live up to our responsibilities and have always within our hearts that serious desire to serve.

"Comrades, whatever of good the day has accomplished, the praise is to you alone, and we express to you our deep appreciation of serving with you."

General DuPont Taken By Death

Former Senator From Delaware And Famous Financier Dies In Washington

THROAT AFFECTION IS FATAL AILMENT

(International News Service) WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 12.—Funeral services were to be announced today for General T. Coleman Du Pont, former senator from Delaware and one of America's foremost financiers. He died at his home here Tuesday after a long illness caused by a complication of diseases developing from a throat affection.

Thomas Coleman Du Pont, born in Louisville, Ky., in 1863, was a builder and organizer and made one fortune after another in coal, steel, street railways, explosives, hotels and real estate. He began his career in mining, was head of a powder company at 39 and when he died left a vast estate embracing many industries.

In 1916 he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for president and received 13 votes on the second ballot at the national convention of the party in Chicago. Du Pont was appointed to the United States senate. He was defeated for the office in the election following his appointment but he was elected to the senate in 1925 for the six-year term. He resigned because of ill health in December, 1928. He served as a brigadier general of the Delaware National Guard under five governors.

Du Pont was married in 1889 while working in a Kentucky coal mine to a distant cousin, Alice DuPont. A son and three daughters were with Mrs. Du Pont at his bedside when he died.

Contractors Gain In Perry Highway 'Link Hole' Trouble

100,000 Cubic Yards Of Earth Dumped At Cost Of $57,000

COCHRANTON, Pa., Nov. 12.—Belief grew today that the contractors, after weeks of effort, have gained the upper hand in the famous "sink hole" of Conneaut marsh, where a new section of the Perry highway is being put in. The work of filling was started last June, and to date more than 100,000 cubic yards of earth and shale, at a cost of $57,000, have been dumped into the marsh and all of it is sunk out of sight. One hill has been completely torn away in order to provide the fill—only to witness it disappearing in the marsh.

The battle is admitted by the state highway department to be one of the most baffling construction problems.

Special mention was also made by the judges in their report of the display float and numerous decorated cars that the New Castle Retail Grocers' association had in the parade.

The cooperation extended by the business men and various organizations in this feature of the Armistice day program was deeply appreciated by the Armistice day committee, the Woman's club which had charge of the entries and the former service men of the county.

The first place award was made to the Red Cross for the float, the second to the auxiliary of Harry L. McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and third to the Sons of Union Veterans Reserve.

General Bliss Is Buried With Military Honor

Late General Tasker H. Bliss, Wartime Chief Of Staff, Buried To-day

LAI TO REST IN ARLINGTON

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, war-time chief of staff and member of the American peace commission at Versailles, was laid at rest today in Arlington National cemetery with full military honors.

His body was accompanied to the grave by Neaton D. Baker, secretary of war when Bliss was chief of staff; Gen. John J. Pershing and other war-time associates. Pallbearers were enlisted men who attended him at Walter Reed hospital where he died Sunday, 12 years lacking two days after the World war ended.

Funeral services were held first at the home and then at Washington Cathedral where Bishop James E. Freeman officiated.

Farewell Salute.

The body was lowered in the ground at 11:45 as the firing squad of the third cavalry fired a farewell salute and the bugler sounded taps. The flag draped casket mounted on an artillery caisson was escorted to the cemetery by a troop of the third cavalry, a battery of artillery, two battalions of infantry, a company of engineers, a company of marines and the army and marine bands.

At the home today messages of condolence continued to arrive from all parts of the world. The war department's tribute was a general order, black bordered, announcing the death to the army.

Bliss was born at Lewisburg, Pa. in 1853, and graduating from West Point in 1875 he served in the Indian wars, the Spanish war and the World war. Reaching the statutory retiring age on December 31, 1917, he was kept on active duty as chief of staff by direction of President Wilson until May the following year. Bliss was given the rank of general on the retired list by special act of congress June 21 last.

With his death Col. F. M. House becomes the only surviving member of the American peace commission.

Doctor Associates Mourn Death Of Dr. A. W. Urmson

City-wide regret was expressed by New Castle physicians this morning when informed by The News of the sudden death early today of Dr. Allen W. Urmson, for years one of the city's most beloved medical men and respected citizens.

When told of his death, the doctors, all personal as well as professional friends of Dr. Urmson, said: Dr. Jesse R. Cooper—"I've known Dr. Urmson for many years and I can hardly realize that he's gone. In my estimation, and I know other doctors will say the same, Dr. Urmson was probably the finest medical man this part of the state has ever known."

Dr. D. C. Lindley, president, Lawrence County Medical Society—"Dr. Urmson was certainly a gentleman of high moral character and integrity. I feel that his death occasions probably the greatest loss here in years. I knew him for nearly 30 years."

Dr. John Foster—"The news almost overcomes me. I can't find words to express my feeling right now. I knew him both personally and professionally for years, and right now that's all I find myself able to say.

Dr. F. E. Eakin—"New Castle has lost one of its finest men in Dr. Urmson, both from the medical standpoint and as a member of the laity. Everyone respected him."

Dr. Mary J. Baker—"The news shocks me as I know it does everyone who in any way knew Dr. Urmson. I knew him personally, but not very long professionally."

Dr. W. C. Burchfield—"I hardly know what to say. Dr. Urmson was a very good friend of mine, ever since 1912. He stood out always as a wonderful credit to the medical profession. My sympathy goes out to the loved ones that he leaves."

Dr. C. A. Reed—"I was just notified of his death a few minutes before, and it's something difficult to believe. We've been friends ever since we were boys. Dr. Urmson was a man of high character in every way, always lovable and intelligent."

Dr. W. A. Womer—"It indeed comes as a shock to me. Only yesterday at noon we were talking downtown together. He seemed in fine health. As a member of the county medical society he'll always be missed, just as he will in his professional work. He was always unassuming and considerate. If he ever differed with anybody he would always defer to the other man's judgement."

Dr. C. P. McDowell—"Words can't express how I feel on learning of his death. We knew each other very well. You can say the best for him, for in everything he deserved the best. Everyone looked up to him as one of the ablest doctors and kindest friends."

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

After yesterday's parade, New Castle can do a lot of pointing with pride. It was the best parade of its kind this city has ever seen and this in spite of the "nasty" weather.

Martial music always starts a charge of something or other running up and down my back and when that parade was on the old spinal column was a parade ground for a million thrills. The blare of brass and the rumble of drums, and the smart uniforms of the corps got me. It's no weakness to confess a liking for that sort of thing.

The army still has a lot of Dick Smiths in it. Dick Smith you may recall was the soldier who always found a valid reason for getting the easy end of everything. Goldbrick-ing was another term for it. And there's about six able bodied Legionnaires who goldbricked on that parade yesterday. They rode in automobiles. They weren't officials. They didn't rate a horse, they were foot soldiers, but they rode. Names and addresses upon application.

Louis B. Rounds and Major Guy Wadlinger rated a ride. Rounds was the general chairman and Wadlinger is the Post Commander. But rating the ride as they did, I'll bet they hated that crack of that little urchin on South Mill street. The car passed a crowd of youngsters and as it did one of them piped up, "didn't I tell you, the old soldiers do get to ride in automobiles."

You probably noticed that half pint size delegation in the parade, meaning the Croton band. They were headed by three baby automobiles, the youngsters themselves stand about as high as a clarinet, and bringing up in the rear were fifteen little tikes on ponies.

You can't name a patriotic celebration in New Castle in the past fourteen years in which the Croton Band didn't participate. They have been on the job, and while the personnel of the band has changed many times, the tradition still lives.

One of the casualties not listed after the parade yesterday was a pair of sheer hose some sweet young thing had splashed on Jefferson street. They were fairly hose, the expensive kind and she stood on a curb talking to the boy friend. A car washed past and customers who happened was enough to bring tears to your eyes. After the storm blew over she looked down at what had been delicately colored hose. They were stippled with muddy water, and looked as though they had been up at the front.

Only Three Auto Accidents Yesterday

Although thousands of automobiles passed through the city and operated in all of New Castle's thoroughfares Tuesday, only three auto accidents occurred, and these proved of a minor character, according to city police.

The accidents, reported to police follow:
C. J. Shalenberger, 619 Raymond street, reported an auto leased by Arthur Kervinen, 114 West Leasure avenue, had collided with his parked auto in Wilmington avenue.
Lewis Digenario, 162 South Wayne street, reported that while driving in South Mill street his car had been struck by a machine, Pa. 496-HB. The machines were travelling north.

John B. Dennis, 523 Lyndal street, reported that while operating his auto through Mahoning avenue his machine had been struck by Pa. 0714-H.

Car Turns Over Near Zelenople

Miss Ruth A. Hamilton of the Youngstown road and Andrew Shaw of New Castle are recovering from shock and minor bruises received on Sunday when the automobile driven by Mr. Shaw was forced off the road near Zelenople by another machine that did not stop.

Mr. Shaw sustained minor bruises about the body, while Miss Hamilton received minor bruises on the face and arms. The machine was damaged to a great extent.

Lincoln-Garfield School Is Entered

Police today are searching for persons who committed acts of vandalism last night after they had broken into the Lincoln-Garfield public school.

They entered via the fire escape and a window, then committed such pranks that it was necessary to clean some of the rooms.
Detective Logan and Patrolman Lynch are seeking the culprits.

COURT STREET MAN'S CAR IS STOLEN

William C. Stock, 511 Court street, yesterday parked his Chevrolet, 1926 model, Pa. license LC-715, in East Washington street between Cochran Way and North Mercer street. It was stolen Police of nearby cities have been asked to search for the machine.

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. Many Special Deer Licenses Still Available

Over 35,000 Permits For Special Season Had Not Been Taken November 7

Although 20,979 applications for special deer licenses for the special season fixed for November 27, 28 and 29, for the various counties of the state had been applied for on November 7, there were still 35,045 available to hunters on that date, the Board of Game Commissioners at Harrisburg has announced.

In most instances, the number of applications received on the above date did not equal the number still available. Only 112 applications were received for special licenses to hunt in Venango county, while there were still 528 still available.

Elk county led with the number of allotted provisions having been made to issue 10,400 licenses for Elk county. Of this number, only 3,177 had been taken on November 7.

Captain And Nine Of Crew Rescued

Schooner Founders Off Coast Of Florida; Thrilling Rescue Made

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Captain J. A. McIvor, one of the saltiest skippers of the sea, came into port Tuesday with nine members of his crew after being rescued from his sunken five-masted schooner, Dunham Wheeler, which foundered in a storm off Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Captain McIvor has followed the sea for sixty years. The first words he said concerning when he could get another ship.

The captain intimated that when his ship was lost all didn't go so well.

"But I handled the situation," he said.

He told of racing back to his cabin already awash, while his crew was going over the side, he grabbed the ship's papers but he found later that he was clutching a mass of bills.

Then, clinging to a stem line, he had to save several panic-stricken members of the crew. And the captain said he couldn't swim a stroke.

The liner Aztec, after pouring thousands of gallons of oil on the tossing sea, managed to launch a life-boat and pick up the schooner's crew.

While Pittsburgh Police Lieutenant Eats Dinner, Thieves Rob House

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12.—Police Lieut. Paul Berman has been altogether too close to criminals, as a

But the lieutenant was willing to admit today that maybe just a bit of Les Majeste marks a crook now and then.

For instance: While the lieutenant lingered at dinner in his home last night, one of the light fingered gentry placed a ladder against his second-floor window and carried away an overcoat valued at $65, a string of pearls valued at $25 and $13 in cash.

World Fellowship Is Subject Of Address

Ninety Members Of Y. W. C. A. Hear Attorney Walter Braham Speak, Tuesday

"Sometimes, when we look back on that great struggle, the World War, it appears to have been just as huge a failure as were all wars staged in the past several thousand years. But it wasn't a failure. On the contrary it was the greatest step toward international peace that has ever been accomplished.

It served to show that great nations could forget individual differences and submerge in one cause and under one commander-in-chief and unite in a common cause. If great nations can unite in war they can unite in peace. I believe it can be done, will be done and the bloodshed of war will be ended for all ways."

That was the conclusion to a marvelous address on "World Fellowship" by Attorney Walter Braham. Tuesday afternoon to an interested audience of 90 members of the local Young Woman's Christian Association. The women had gathered for luncheon in the green room in celebration of World Fellowship Week and the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice.

Attorney Braham's address featured the after luncheon program. His subject was timely and of great interest to the members of the Y. W. C. A.

The speaker told of his belief that United States should co-operate in peace pacts and in being submissive in regard to minor differences in joining the World Court. He pointed out that it is much better to co-operate with other nations of the world before war than after. The World War is proof that it is possible for the British, Americans, the French and English, the Italian and Slavs, the East and West to unite in a common cause.

Luncheon was served on attractively decorated tables, promptly at 12:30 p. m. American flags and bowls of Fall flowers served as centerpieces on each table. Red, white and blue streamers ran length-ways down the tables.

Members of the senior high school Girl Reserve Club dressed in costumes of the nations of the world, served the luncheon.

Preceding the program, Dr. Mildred Rogers, chairman of the membership committee of the Y. W. C. A. asked the Girl Reserves to all come in and tell the countries they represented. There was a sprightly

Dutch costume, a pretty little Irish outfit, Egyptian, Chinese, Belgian, Hungarian, French, Finland, Roumanian, English, Spanish and many other costumes representative of the many world nations. The idea of having the girls attired in that manner was most appropriate on this occasion—World Fellowship meeting.

Guardsmen Thrill Hundreds With Rough Riding Session

With a nonchalance that won quick admiration from the largest crowd ever gathered at the Scotland Lane drill field, the "rough riders" of Troop F staged a session of trick riding that thrilled 500 persons assembled to view the local National Guard unit's contribution to the tri-county Armistice day celebration.

It was a gala day for the troop and the exhibition proved the guardsmen's opportunity to group in a measure the efforts of a group of civilian sponsors and others interested in the "F's" welfare.

From scores of automobiles that lined the drill area and a thick crowd, observers viewed during stunts and splendid examples of horsemanship by the guardsmen's "rough riders" squad, led by the troop's sergeant instructor, Willard Miller, formerly of Fort Meyer, Va., the home of the government's crack cavalry outfit.

The group that awed the large gathering comprised Sergeants Lee W. Stewart, George R. Pollock, Joseph C. Vonderau, Corporals William J. Hemming, Thomas J. St. John, Privates Howard E. Munnell, Orville W. Trax, Henry W. Robinson. The feature of the stunt program was the human hurdle, with Sergt. Pollock as the hurdle and Sergt. Instructor Miller the jumper. The particular jump was also accomplished through a human arch formed by other riders.

Sergts. Pollock and Stewart successfully completed several hair-raising stunts. Pollock rode three horses Roman fashion. Private Robinson brought applause with his humorous "clinging" ride, and Corporal Hemming completed a shoulder stand while his horse galloped down the field.

A brief drill period preceded the past trick riding. A "free-for-all" mounted wrestling match was held.

THE REAL TRUTH ABOUT STOMACH ACIDS

How to Get Prompt, Safe Relief from Indigestion, Gas Pains, Heartburn, etc.

Do you struggle along day after day—suffering from indigestion, heartburn, gas pains, sour stomach—trying one remedy after another and never finding relief? The probable reason, according to highest medical authority, is that you don't get at the real cause of the trouble—excess acidity. It is true that all stomach acids are harmful. They aren't. Your stomach must contain a certain amount of hydrochloric acid for good digestion. Nature put acid in your stomach. It belongs there. There are, however, different acids—harmful ones—that frequently form in the stomach. They come from fermenting food. They are the acids that cause distress. Yet when you attempt to get relief through ordinary remedies, you often make the condition worse. For most methods go too far. They not only neutralize the trouble-causing excess acids, but they also neutralize the acid of the gas-

Three Cuban Towns Under Martial Law

New Outbreaks Of Rioting Students Cause Military Action Today

(International News Service) HAVANA, Nov. 12.—Martial law was in force in several cities of Cuba today, following new outbreaks of student riots and demonstrations in protest against the government's order closing Cuban colleges until January.

Santiago, Matanzas and Camaguey were taken over by the military, soldiers patrolling the streets on foot and in armored cars with orders to break up all gatherings immediately.

The order for martial law was promulgated following a serious demonstration at Camaguey, where many were reported injured in a clash with police who attempted to break up a student protest meeting.

Pepto-Bismol is one preparation that knows the difference between good acids and bad acids. The instant it enters the stomach it gently checks fermentation and the formation of excess acids—then stops. It does not destroy the acid needed for digestion, no matter how much is taken, to the contrary, it aids good digestion. It coats irritated membranes with a soothing bland film. Relief is quick—and gentle! Pepto-Bismol causes no violent internal reaction, no hiccoughs, such as soda and soda compounds often do.

The next time you are bothered by indigestion, heartburn or gas, do as doctors have advised for 25 years—take Pepto-Bismol. It's pleasant in taste. Prompt and sure in action. Safe for children and infants. In the 3-oz. bottle at your drug-gist's—only 60c. The Norwich Pharmaceutical Company, Norwich, N. Y.

King George Opens London Conference On Future Of India

What Measure Of Self-Government For India Will Be Discussed

Eighty-Six Delegates From Empire Gather In House
Of Lords Gallery

By HARRY R. FLOREY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 12.—In the lavishly decorated royal gallery of the House of Lords, King George V today set in motion the long awaited round table conference which is to decide the future of India's 300,000,000 population.

Eighty-six delegates, representing Great Britain, British India and the independent Indian states, had gathered in the sumptuous gallery where early this year King George inaugurated the London naval conference.

From the British empire standpoint the round table conference transcended by far the arms parley in importance, for the paramount subject for discussion was what measure of self-government the crown is ready to grant for most populous and most discontented colony.

Speech Broadcast

In his speech inaugurating the conference, broadcast to the United States over the networks of the Columbia Broadcasting Company and the National Broadcasting Company, His Majesty called attention to the "growth of ideas and aspirations of nationhood" which has taken place in India during the last 10 years and which "defy the customary measurements of time."

"It should therefore be no matter of surprise to the men of this generation that as was then contemplated it should have become necessary to exhibit in review the results of what was begun 10 years ago and to make further provision for the future," he continued.

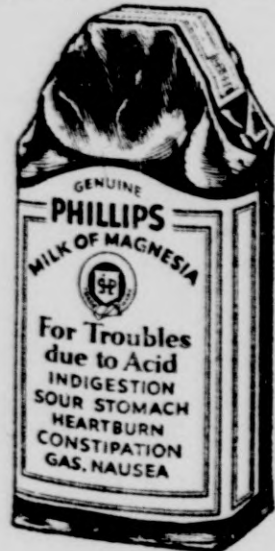

Many Proposals
"Such a review has been carried out by the commission appointed by me for that purpose (the Simon commission) and you will have before you the outcome of their labors, together with other proposals which have been made to the solution of the great problem confronting you."

Declaring he would watch the proceedings of the conference "with the closest and most sympathetic interest, not indeed without anxiety, but with the greatest confidence," the king expressed the hope that the future government of India, based on the foundation of self-government, "will give expression to her honorable aspirations."

What was the date and cause of the Iroquois theater fire in Chicago? The date of the famous Iroquois theater fire in Chicago, in which 575 persons lost their lives, was December 30, 1903. The fire was caused by a short circuit back stage, the theater taking fire rapidly because of the flimsy nature of the scenery in the play which was being produced.

How does it happen that the United States controls the Helium supply?

The United States government has virtually a monopoly on this valuable substance. Deposits of Helium are found in many of the states, but not in quantitative abundance outside of the Amarillo region of Texas, where in the spring of 1929 a new extraction plant was opened by the federal government to replace the one at Fort Worth, Tex., after the exhaustion of the gas supply at Petrolia. There are small deposits in Canada, Italy and Czechoslovakia. The Helium content of the gases in the Amarillo field is one and three-quarters per cent the highest of any known deposits.

In what part of the world are found the expensive stones known as cat's eyes, and of what mineral are they composed?

The name cat's eye has been given to a greenish variety of chrysoberyl from Ceylon where it is often carved to resemble a monkey's face, taking advantage of the varying colors and lights of the stone to secure a grotesque likeness to that animal. The name is also given to an opalescent variety of quartz. A tiger-eye variety from the Orange river of South Africa is an altered crocidolite in which the fibrous iron silicate has been replaced by a deposition of quartz on the fibres.

When was the temperance movement introduced to America?

In April, 1808, a society was formed at Moreau, Saratoga county, New York, with 43 members, which provided in its constitution that "no member should drink rum, gin, whiskey, wine or distilled spirits, except by advice of a physician or in case of actual disease (also excepting at public dinners), under penalty of 25 cents." This society existed for 14 years, but accomplished little. The American Temperance society was founded in Boston, February, 1826, and the New York State Temperance society on 1829. By 1830 the latter society numbered 100,000 members.

Astronomers Will See Falling Stars

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—Some dark night this week, probably Saturday, astronomers, squinting through polished telescopes, will observe the fall of numerous shooting stars.

These are the advance guard of the world's greatest meteor display, the "greatest night show on earth or in the heavens," due in 1933, of whirls through the Leonids.

All over North America "astronomical fans," beginning tonight are planning to watch for the advance scattering of Leonid meteors. Attempts will be made to photograph them at Blue Hill and at Harvard observatories.

The advance scattering of Leonids, which travel through space at the estimated rate of 44 miles per second, are due to appear in the eastern heavens, according to Dr. Willard J. Fisher, lecturer on astronomy at Harvard who has charge of the arrangements here for observing the display of shooting "fire balls."

Not As Brilliant
The 1933 edition of Leonids, astronomers said, probably will not be as brilliant a "night show" as that of 1933 when an observer at August, Ga., remarked: "The stars descended like snowfall to the earth," as the earth passed directly through the swarm of bits of iron and stone. Three times a century the earth's orbit is "peppered" by the "fiery rain."

Meteor experts have only theories to explain how the swarm of brilliant particles come into being. They are believed to be fragments of something. Whether they are swirling dust of a dead planet, particles swept from other worlds or the remains of some upheaval in space centuries ago is still a secret of the heavens. The size of the particles was said to be probably as small as grains of wheat, but their terrific speed, when they strike the atmosphere of the earth, causes them to flame.

Plan For Survey Of Drug Stores

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Research facilities of the Commerce

Department were today extended to the national drug survey committee, representing thirty trade associations in the drug and allied fields, according to an announcement by William B. Cooper, Director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The department has agreed to undertake, beginning July 1, in St. Louis, a comprehensive survey of drug store merchandising operations and problems. St. Louis will be used as a laboratory for the benefit of the retail trade of the entire country.

"In view of the national character of this survey and the benefit which is expected from it to drug stores and their suppliers throughout the country, the bureau will make every effort to carry the project forward to a conclusion which will reflect to the benefit not only of retail druggists but the entire trade and ultimately of consumers," Cooper said.

Help Contribute to Unemployment Relief

THOUSANDS of good American citizens are begging... not for alms, but for WORK.

You can see them today walking the streets, scanning the meagre Help Wanted columns, crowding the doorways of the employment agencies.

You can not see the fear that oppresses the homes from which they set out each morning on their desperate quest. You can not see the anxiety and the heartaches of thousands of mothers... the suffering of under-fed children.

Tomorrow 2½% of every dollar taken in by all Whelan Drug Stores and United Cigar Stores in the metropolitan district will be turned over to the Mayor's Committee for the Relief of unemployment. Every purchase you make, however small, will swell the fund. The more you buy, the more jobs you and hundreds of thousands of other Whelan and United customers will provide for the men and women who need them.

No Action Taken At Board Of Education On Appraisal Bids

Educational Body Defers Action On Appraisal Bids Until December Meeting Here

As Formerly Agreed, Board Gives School $250 For Instruments In School Band

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 12.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday evening in the Lincoln school two bids from appraisal companies were read by the secretary. The first, from the Lloyd Thomas company charging $25 per day with a maximum cost of $1,000 for the entire appraisal of the school buildings. The other bid was from the American Appraisal company, estimating $400 per quarter, maximum cost of $1,600. J. W. Offutt, chairman of the Finance committee moved that the board withhold action on the above until next meeting and that the Secretary be instructed to secure additional bids on same. This was carried.

At a former meeting the Board of Education agreed to contribute an equal amount of money raised by the schools for band instruments. To date the schools have raised $250 so a motion was carried at last night's meeting that a check for the same amount be made payable to the school to purchase band instruments at a wholesale price. Supr. Smith expects an additional $500 from the Rotary Club for band instruments, and when the amount is raised, a like amount will be given by the board.

In his report Supt. Smith stated that plans have been made to dedicate the auditorium after the first of the year, and a committee will be appointed to complete details, if agreeable to the board.

He further stated that there will be Junior High school basketball this winter as well as Senior, with the former playing the preliminary games. There will be no girls' team this year, owing to a difficulty in scheduling games. The Athletic fund will run behind its budget this year owing to the fact that times have affected the gate receipts, $800 have been expended so far in equipment and expenses.

Venetian blinds have been purchased for the windows in the auditorium. While they are more expensive than cloth blinds, in the future they can be used to darken the auditorium in the daytime to permit the showing of motion pictures. The board also agreed to allow the school nurse $10 per month for the maintenance of her car during her school calls.

Legion Drum Corps Wins Another Cup

Sidney Krause Wins Aeroplane In Legion Celebration Tuesday By Rochester Post

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 12.—Another trophy has been added to the many already annexed by the snappy J. Wilbur Randolph Post Bugle and Drum corps. The corps took part in the Armistice Day parade Tuesday morning in Rochester, as part of the celebration. The parade was well-planned and executed and enjoyed by thousands, in spite of the weather. The fact that the Bugle and Drum corps came marching home with a silver cup, made the event perfect.

Ellwood City came into the spotlight again that day when Sidney Krause, proved to be the holder of the winning ticket for the aeroplane. A course of instructions goes with the plane, and it is expected that Sidney will pick himself a nice soft haystack to rise above for practice.

Meals were served during the day by the Rochester Post auxiliary and a program was enjoyed in the afternoon at the Majestic theater. The busy day concluded fittingly with a dance at Junction park for the comrades and their wives and sweethearts.

Educational Body To Take Action Against Ellport

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 12.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Ellwood City Board of Education which took place Tuesday evening in the Lincoln school, a legal communication was read concerning the $3500 owed the local school system by the Borough of Ellport schools. This debt has accrued from non-payment of tuition from pupils in the Ellport district.

Secretary Mattox read an extract stating that the local board can sue for the amount within the next six years, or they can permit the Borough to float a loan to repay the debt as they are able. As a last resort the local Educational body will not admit the pupils next year and refer the matter to the State Educational department. However, the Board wants to be as lenient in the matter as possible, and yet just to the needs of the local schools.

Enoch J. Hazen Dies As Result Of Accident Here

Well-Known Pioneer Resident Dies In Hospital As Result Of Fall Suffered Monday

Enoch J. Hazen Lived All Of His 78 Years But Two In Ellwood City And Vicinity

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 12.—Coming as a shock to his many friends in Ellwood City and vicinity is the news of the death of Enoch J. Hazen of Spring avenue. Mr. Hazen has lived in this community practically all his life, with the exception of two years.

Death came to him in the Ellwood City hospital this morning, and was induced by a concussion of the brain, caused by a fall suffered Monday evening in his home. He had been carrying some freshly laundered clothing to the second floor, and when half way up the stairs, lost his footing and fell backwards to the bottom of the stairs. He suffered a concussion of the brain and remained in a comatose condition for several days. Physicians were puzzled to account for the concussion condition as no marks from the fall were noticed on his head.

Years ago Mr. Hazen and his father operated the Frisco Mill known then as Hazens Mill, near Frisco. He has been a carpenter all his life and assisted greatly in building the town of Ellwood City to its present proportions. He was a member of the Ellwood City Borough council when the franchise was granted for the Harmony Traction company to operate within the city limits. Mr. Hazen has been a member and former deacon of the First Baptist church many years.

For the past four years he has been retired from active business, but seemed to enjoy fair health and worked about the home on Spring avenue which has been occupied by the family for years. He and Mrs. Hazen celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary three years ago here, at which time they received hearty congratulations from many friends in the surrounding country.

Mr. Hazen was born in 1853 out by the old Frisco dam, and since reaching the age of maturity has made his presence felt in activities in the town.

The passing of the grand old pioneer resident is a matter of shock and grief to the entire community.

Immediate survivors are: Mrs. Sara Booth Hazen, his wife; two daughters, Miss Carrie E. Hazen and Miss Lyla B. Hazen. There are many other relatives in this vicinity as the name of Hazen has been one to associate with the growth of the town and the family has always commanded the love and respect of all acquainted with them.

Funeral services will take place early Friday afternoon from the First Baptist church with Rev. Bert Williams officiating. Interment will be made in the Locust Grove cemetery.

Rochester High To Clash With Local High School Here

Blue And White Preparing For Another Victory Over A Valley Team On Saturday

(By TONY PASTA)
ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 12.—Fresh from a well-earned victory over New Brighton last Saturday, the Blue and White High school team is now preparing for a clash this Saturday with Rochester High on the local field. Coach Ingle's machine hopes to annex this Beaver Valley opponent to the list of victories.

According to Rochester's performances against some of the Ellwood opponents, the Tubers should win. This opponent played a scoreless tie against New Brighton, but the locals nosed out an 18-13 win. When Rochester clashed with Monaca, they were lucky to win by a small score of 7-6. Ingle's team defeated the same crew by a 9-7 score. From this it seems that Ellwood should emerge victorious on Saturday. This can only be done, however, if the blue and white continues to play the same calibre of football displayed against New Brighton last Saturday. The locals never clicked at such a perfect pace and their powerful aerial attack was at its best as they scored the winning marker via this route.

Condi and Frisk both performed well and the former has filled the shoes of Sheeler in fine fashion. Sheeler was injured several weeks ago, but will probably see action this Saturday. Vogt and Cunningham were hurt in the New Brighton tilt but it is thought that both will be in shape for the battle with Rochester.

Last year this aggregation nosed out a 6-0 victory and revenge is sought by the Tubers for this defeat. If the Ingle men can snatch this victory it will be their third in succession as they have chalked up two consecutive wins. No practice was held yesterday, but Ingle will continue for the balance of the week in preparation for the coming clash.

Women Hear Fine Talk By Woman Weather Engineer

Many Donations Given For Thanksgiving Baskets At Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 12.—Miss Margaret Ingals, foremost woman engineer on air-conditioning, was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Ellwood City Women's club Tuesday afternoon in the Elks club. Her topic "Doing Something About the Weather," was well-given and highly enjoyed. She was introduced by Mrs. Catherine Charles who stated that Miss Ingals is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and the first woman engineer to become interested in air conditioning. Said Miss Ingals in part: "Interest was first manifested in the weather about 8,000 years ago, with it was discovered that crops were vitally affected by weather conditions. She further stated that as people are indoors 90% of the time indoor weather should be improved and Research laboratories have been investigating various methods of purifying the home atmosphere. She mentioned the late Houdini, who maintained testing laboratories and was thus able to be sealed in an air-tight coffin and placed in a pool of water. Miss Ingals also showed interesting charts on home ventilation and stated that three factors entered into the air that affect the heat-carrying capacities: First, the temperature, secondly the moisture and thirdly the wind.

The musical portion of the afternoon's program was capably handled by Mrs. Charles French, Mrs. W. L. Dean and Miss Miriam Johnson. Mrs. French sang a group of songs "A Gift" and "Pirate Dreams" by Charles Hervey and "They Beaming Eyes" by Edward McDowell, with Mrs. Dean accompanying her on the piano. Miss Miriam Johnson contributed two piano selections of modern composition, "The Magic Lake" and "A Spanish Dance."

Mrs. Berwick Barton, chairman of the Civic committee, received several donations, totaling $25 for use in distributing the Thanksgiving baskets, a traditional custom of the Women's club.

During the business meeting the project of buying a piano for the club was introduced by Mrs. Lillian Thomas, chairman of the program committee, as a helpful measure for this year's committee and the committee in years to come. A fine piano was on exhibition and used for the program yesterday. After a discussion it was unanimously voted to purchase the instrument for the club's use at extremely low cost to the club.

The meeting was then turned over to the members of the social committee, who served light refreshments, concluding a most pleasant meeting. Hostesses of the day were: Mrs. Arthur Grandey, Mrs. Norman Mortensen, Mrs. L. E. Springer and Mrs. H. R. Smith.

Opinion Differs On Which Backfield At Notre Dame Was Best

Many Feel That 1930 Quartet Of Backfield Aces Outrank Four Horsemen

Six Years Ago Layden, Miller, Crowley And Stuldreher Were In Harness

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—A few years back when Notre Dame's four horsemen each week brought the nation to its tip toes with a bundle of heart throbs almost as vast as the general public's ignorance of the Apocalypse of Biblical days or the modern revelation as novelized by Ibsen, the Spaniard, they got so hysterical they wanted to erect statues to Coach Knute Rockne. Today the same sincere boys are telling it around that the horsemen were good, very good, but the 1930 riders are the ace in the great mentor's royal flush of all-conquering eleven.

In 1924, Miller, Crowley, Layden and Stuldreher were feted as the perfect casting of natural athletic power and grace by the hands of the old man. They were heralded from coast to coast as the de luxe technicians of all time but today such six-year-back adjectives as smartest, super-brilliant and masterful pale into the significance of a last week's shave as Carideo, Brill, Schwartz and Savoldi are merrily paraded through the dictionary.

Rockne Is Brilliant
But as a matter of fact it is doubtful if the 1930 South Bend team has any natural advantage over that 1924 backfield. When Rockne first got his hands on the original horsemen they probably were just as good as the heroes of this week when they first met Knute.

If the current outfit is superior to the once near-immortal quartet the honor and the glory goes to Rockne himself. Rockne was a great coach six years ago but even coaches may live and learn. Rockne's daily workouts with Elmer Layden and his three playmates and their successors down through the years have made the Indiana mentor a huge storehouse of what must be done and what the enemy must not do, a catalogue of experience and knowledge, and on this material was built the marvelous combination of this fall.

Despite all this the bridge is going to look down on a lot of water in the next few days and whether the present Notre Dame team will go down in the public's mind as the greatest is a question only Northwestern, Army and Southern California may answer.

Famous Notre Dame Coach Angered By Rumor He Will Go To California

(International News Service)
SOUTH BEND, Nov. 12.—"You will do me a great favor if you will emphatically, positively and precisely deny this rumor that I am leaving Notre Dame," Knute Rockne, famous coach of the Irish team, declared Tuesday when asked concerning a report that he would accept a coaching post in California. "I am tired of the annual reports that I am leaving Notre Dame. I am not," he concluded.

Saturday's Grid Games Good Ones

Football Menu For This Week Crammed Full Of Red-Hot Battles

HAWAIIAN TEAM PLAYS ON COAST

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—They say football gets its life-blood, nutritive force and stimulating growth from intersectional tilts and if that be the case next Saturday's battles will furnish enough stored up energy, bottled violet rays and trapped vitamins to keep the old game in perfect health until Notre Dame loses or Princeton wins, which may be way off yonder.

A Penn State team came from nowhere to hold Syracuse to a scoreless tie in the west to test Iowa at Iowa City and Kentucky Wesleyan will visit West Point to find out about a great Army eleven. Ole-Thomas versus Villanova is a Philadelphia attraction and Boston College versus Loyola College is carded in Chicago.

By land and sea, Hawaii is coming all the way to Los Angeles to play the University of Southern California. We haven't the slightest idea what the colors of der old Hawaii may be but we are certain when the sun pops down on that Stadium on the west coast this Saturday evening that black and blue would be mighty appropriate ribbons for the Waikiki boys.

Eight Undefeated Teams
Of the eight undefeated, United Fordham and Marquette are facing headaches, for Notre Dame has a deep "breather" in Drake, Northwestern Wisconsin, Utah meets Colorado and Washington State fights Washington. Alabama has a date with Louisiana and Oregon engages Oregon State.

In that way down east country Harvard and Yale are supposed to have rest periods, Yale playing Princeton at Princeton, while the crimson entertains Holy Cross at Cambridge.

Colgate-Syracuse
Colgate and Syracuse meet in a tradition-packed affair at Syracuse, Temple and Lafayette mix in Philadelphia and Bucknell is the opponent of Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh.

Michigan will play Minnesota at Ann Arbor, with Ohio State versus Pittsburgh at Columbus. Kansas versus Oklahoma at Lawrence, Nebraska versus Missouri at Lincoln and Chicago versus Illinois at Chicago other important midwest highlights.

Wesley M. E. Class Forms Floor Team

Expect To Enter Fast Team In Y. M. C. A. League This Winter

Plans were completed for organizing a basketball team which will play in the Y. M. C. A. league during the coming winter, at a meeting of the H. O. D. class of the Wesley M. E. Sunday school at the home of William Reich of Grove avenue Tuesday evening.

After a business session devoted to the organization of the team, games and singing were enjoyed and a tasty lunch was served by Mrs. Bessie Reich.

Those present were Eustace Hughes, Paul Fabian, Jack Griggs, Albert Reich, Thomas Griggs, Stanley Crabb, Bill Birt, Gerald Morrison, Lawrence Gibson, Wilbur Flannery, Henry Griggs, William Critchlow, William Reich, and Peter Griggs.

The team will open the season with a practice game on the Lincoln and Garfield gym floor, Thursday, November 13.

Gridiron Gossip

Coach "Duke" Beede has a big task ahead of him this week. The Titans of Westminster are called upon to meet Thiel. The Lutherans have a sure-fire outfit they lack the scoring punch, but they have a fine defensive team. Westminster is also a defensive team, and therefore the battle is going to be interesting. Both eleven could use some fast backfield men. The Titans especially need a set of fast men to run the ends and to carry on through off-tackle thrusts.

Westminster has been somewhat baffled all year on the matter of breaking up forward passes, and they may wake up Saturday night to find themselves licked if they do not keep an eye on Labe Wardie and Dism McClure, or Urban Schenck. This Wardie boy, hailing from Washington, Pa., and a former protégé of Hank Day, has knack of passing the ball where the opponents aren't. Against W. & J. here the Lutheran ace looked awfully good. Thiel's captain is slightly injured, but will probably be in the game this coming Saturday.

The Pitt Panthers haven't got anything soft to look forward to this week at Columbus Ohio. The husky Ohio State team led by Captain Wesley Fesler will make things interesting for the Pitt team no doubt, when Coach John Sutherland takes his trusty charges over to the neighboring state capital. Last week, the Ohio State team surprised themselves and the rest of the grid world populace by pasting a 27 to 0 defeat on the necks of the Navy. The Buckeyes will be poised to Pitt, wait and see.

It must be a tough job to be press agent for a team that has lost all its games, and that is the lot of a

South Will Be Difficult foe

Youngstown Team Coming Saturday Will Excel Rayen Eleven

GAME LAST YEAR ENDED IN 6-6 SCORE

Despite a drizzle of rain on Tuesday afternoon the New Castle high school football team worked out at Taggart Field in preparation for Saturday afternoon when the local eleven takes on the strong South High eleven of Youngstown, here.

Although the session was a light one it was a workout all the same. The first team was composed of Ciccone and Jameson at ends, Mike and Crisic at tackle, Hileman and DeCarbo at guards, Hoose at center and in the backfield were, McAuley at quarterback, Rowe and Lasky at halfback, and Thomas at fullback.

Unless a last minute change is made this same combination which setback Rayen 13-7 last week will probably line up next Saturday afternoon to endeavor to defeat the second Youngstown opponent this season. The locals have been rather successful defeating Ohio opponents so far this season. First came Woodard of Toledo with a big team a good reputation. After the game the score found New Castle on top 12-6.

Last Saturday Rayen was the next Ohio opponent of the season. After four quarters of football which any fan could enjoy the score again favored the local red and black grid-birds, 13-7. The next call now is to attempt to stop South who according to rumors will end the season with the Youngstown championship hanging on their belts. South and Chaney are leading the Youngstown schools this season and these two schools will meet to decide which has the best eleven.

This shows just what the power of South is this season. Fans still remember that 6-6 contest last season. That game proved a thriller and according to dope from Youngstown, fans have in store another football treat next Saturday afternoon.

George Hamas Is Titan Halfback

GEORGE HAMAS

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 12.—The Hamas brothers of Penn State were known far and wide for their athletic ability. Steve and Mike did much to place the State institution on the map. But there are others in the Hamas family. For instance, Westminster has George Hamas, member of this year's football team, and John Hamas, member of the basketball squad.

George, the youngest of the Hamas brothers, weighs 180 and plays right halfback on the Titan eleven. He scored two touchdowns against Juniata at Huntingdon two weeks ago, but his value to the team is more for his remarkable defensive play than his offensive thrusts. Hamas was first used at fullback by Beede, but was shifted to the "outside half" job in the second game of the year.

George played football and basketball and was a weight man on the track team at the East Rutherford, N. J., high school before entering Westminster.

Bessemer-Union Carded Saturday

Championship Of Tri-County Class B League Will Be At Stake

NEITHER TEAM IS BEATEN IN LEAGUE

With the championship of the tri-county class B league at stake Union high school football team will go to Bessemer on Saturday afternoon for the most important battle of the 1930 grid season. Coach David M. Boyd announced today that it will be the toughest game on the Union card.

There is a lot of real interest in this coming contest. Neither team has been defeated in league competition. Unless a develop, one of them must take second place. Which will it be?

Both teams will put forth severe drilling this week in preparation for the one game of the year that both teams desire to win. Barring injuries the strongest lineups of both teams will take the field to battle it out for the class B crown.

Union high has played perhaps a tougher schedule than Bessemer, but out in Bessemer they think that the local high school team is unbeatable and with all that confidence behind them the boys coached by Fredricks should take the bunting.

In event of fair weather the biggest crowd of the year will no doubt pack that fine new athletic field recently dedicated at Bessemer.

The starting time of the game is 2:30 o'clock.

Basketball Season Plans Are Made For Teams At Y. M. C. A.

Practices Start On November
17; 38 Teams In "Y"
Leagues Will Foster
Game

With 38 organized basketball teams as part of the Y. M. C. A. Physical Department activities, Henry MacNichols, physical director believes that basketball at the institution will not lack interest among fans in the city this season.

The physical director bases his belief on the forthcoming basketball season's future on the well-organized Church League teams numbering 16 aggregations, MacNichols, speaking about the Church teams said:

"This year will see one of the biggest and best Church Leagues in Y. M. C. A.'s of this part of the country. Where last year we had 12 teams in a single league without classification of teams, this year we are classifying the teams according to the ability of the entire team, or the members of the team, and organizing them in two separate leagues of eight teams each."

"This means better and keener competition through the entire season. Among the A League as well as the B League."

This year there were 21 registrations from 21 different churches of the city to enter basketball teams in the Church League. In all probability, MacNichols believes, from the outlook of this registration, the season will get underway on Thanksgiving evening with a big send off.

Practices are starting on the 17th of this month and will continue until Thanksgiving.

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Church League will be held Thursday at 7:15 p. m. sharp. The meeting will be in charge of Alec Samuels, basketball layman. At the gathering the league organization will be completed. MacNichols has asked managers to have the players' eligibility list ready. Managers are also requested to be represented or to have a representative with the list at the meeting.

The New Castle Y. M. C. A., with its organization of the Church League with two leagues of eight teams each, a house league composed of four teams, such as the Phalanx, Young Men's Industrial team, Eurata, and Senior leaders club team; two leagues of six teams each in the Boys' League; and Junior B class league of six teams, feels that the game of basketball will not be neglected in this city.

New Airplane Club At "Y" Brings Boys

Initial Meeting Attracts City
Boys; Decide Study Of
Design, Construction

Intricacies of model airplane design were discussed for the first time at the Y. M. C. A. boys' work department Tuesday evening, the start of the newly formed craft club for boys of the city.

At eight o'clock the library of the department was nearly filled with eager boys interested in the mystery of aeronautics. The boys fired questions to be answered by the club leaders, William Shira and William Thomas, the latter boys' work director.

The meeting night for each week was set for eight o'clock. The boys decided to study the work of the R. O. G. No. 1 for next week and also to purchase the kits and start on the construction of plane models.

Along with the airplane work there will be the construction of electric lamps and soap carving work. So that any boy will try varied activities.

This club work is open to any boy of New Castle or vicinity whether he has a membership in the Y. M. C. A. or not. There is real interest in this type of club.

Tomorrow night the Mothers Club meets.

Orange AMERICAN GAS

is to AMOCO-GAS

AUTOMOBILE manufacturers recognize that there is more than one market for motor cars. Some people want a large car—some are content with a more compact, less expensive model.

Leading makers cater to both markets. And The American Oil Company follows the same policy. In the field of regular-priced gasolines, there is Orange American Gas—a wonderful value, a truly great regular gasoline. And in the premium motor fuel field, there's Amoco-Gas, first to enter the field and first in performance and economy today as always!

But remember this! While Amoco-Gas costs more than regular gas at the pump—it's really far cheaper by the mile. And low cost per mile is what counts!

Predict Split Of Republican Party On Wet Dry Issue

Republican Party Leaders
Already Demanding
Senator Fess Be Replaced

FESS IN FAVOR OF STAYING DRY

President Hoover Holds
Power To Change
Party's Director-
General

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Predictions of a Republican split over prohibition in 1932 seemed well on the way to fulfillment today as prominent wets and dries in the party hammered away at each other in lusty fashion. The immediate target of the wets is Senator Simon D. Fess, the bone-dry chairman of the Republican National committee, and the frequent champion of the Anti-Saloon League on the senate floor. There is a well-defined movement afoot to replace Fess as chairman, not so much on account of the reverses the party suffered last week under his direction, but because he has laid down the ultimatum that the Republicans must stay dry.

"The Republican party will stay dry or it will split," said Fess, grimly in earnest.

Challenge Accepted
This challenge has promptly been accepted by leading wets in the party, who have been greatly heartened by the anti-prohibition wave that swept last Tuesday's elections. They are demanding to know whether the Republicans of New York, Illinois, New Jersey, and other influential states are to be ignored in the 1932 convention.

"The trouble with Senator Fess," said Ex-Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, "is that he cannot see what is going on in this country. Tears dim his sight. We want our party to be right upon the issue that has arisen since the days of the Civil war, and we will fight to make it right, split or no split."

British Comments
To which was added this comment from Rep. Fred Britten (R) of Illinois, one of the wet leaders in the house:

"If Senator Fess is so blind or so intolerant that he cannot analyze the desires of millions of voters in the progressive northern states, the national committee should elect another chairman before the arid senator further depresses the party."

The wets contend that Fess' bone-dry dictum comes all the more unfortunately at this time when his own state of Ohio has just deserted prohibition to the extent of electing a wet Democrat to the senate in a campaign in which prohibition was the chief issue.

Scalp Is Wanted
In any event, they want his official scalp and purpose to get it.

The party chairmanship, of course, is the prerogative of the president. The dry Ohioan was placed in the office by President Hoover's direction. He will remain until Mr. Hoover indicates a desire to have him replaced, irrespective of how much the wets may desire him ousted.

If the opposition, however, gets too strong Mr. Hoover may be prevailed upon to act if for no other reason than to preserve peace in the party. Mr. Hoover intends to be a candidate for re-election in 1932, and the prohibition issue will be a troublesome enough anyway without the added factor of a party chairman who is the target of a considerable section of the party.

The expectation prevails in Washington that after congress meets and the Wickersham commission has made some sort of a report it will be announced that Fess' senatorial duties have become so arduous that they will no longer permit his occupancy of the chairmanship of the party.

The next annual automobile show of Germany will be held in February.

Father Owes Life To His Daughter

Found Unconscious In Garage
From Carbon Monoxide
Gas

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 12.—Robert L. Kennedy, 59, business man, probably owes his life to the presence of mind of his daughter, Betty, who found him unconscious in his garage late Monday night.

Kennedy had gone to the garage about 6 o'clock to make some adjustments on his automobile. He was "tuning" the motor and had the doors of the garage closed.

When Kennedy did not return to the house about 10 o'clock, Miss Kennedy went in search of him and found him unconscious near the door. She called Alfred Allam from a nearby drug store and he applied artificial respiration until a physician arrived.

Kennedy was restored to consciousness shortly after midnight and was in the way of recovery today. He remembers nothing of his experience.

Husband Held As Negress Is Found Dead From Bullet

(International News Service)
MORGAN, Pa., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Leila Gray, 25, was found shot to death on the porch of her home here early today.

WOMAN HELD IN THEFT FROM GUEST

Wonders of Nature—Being so crooked that you can stand in the middle of the block and look around the corner.

Famous Quartet Scores Big Hit

Is One Of The Outstanding
Features Of Armistice Day Program

Red Arrow Quartet of the Pennsylvania Railroad, famous throughout the country, was one of the big features of the meeting held Armistice Day night at the Cathedral and from the applause and repeated efforts made by the audience to have the program prolonged, efforts of the singers, loaned for the celebration by the Pennsylvania company were thoroughly appreciated and might be said to even exceed the expectations of the hundreds of people in attendance.

The personnel of the quartet was announced, E. A. Sprague, first tenor, C. W. McVicker, baritone and P. W. Schoeller, basso with Mrs. Frank Weiss at the piano and Frank Weiss, announcing the program.

The program presented was snappy and included the highly classical and the old time numbers done in the old time style of the days of "barbershop quartets." Among the quartet numbers rendered were: "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "Around the Corner," "Rigoletti Traversery," "When I Was Tenor in the Old Quartet in the Old Home Town." E. A. Sprague rendered the solo "Dear Old Pal O Mine" in a very effective manner.

Bradford Corps Wins Competition Held On Tuesday

Several Thousand People
Witness Interesting
Competition

Approximately two thousand people witnessed the drum and bugle corps competition held Tuesday afternoon at Taggart Stadium. In spite of the fact that the rain was falling quite briskly as the last two corps, Sharpshooters and McKeesport, were contesting, the crowd stuck in whatever sheltered places could be found, until every part of the competition was over.

The competition was one of the most interesting and colorful events of the kind ever held here. The decision of the judges was that the Bradford V. F. W. Corps should be awarded the first prize of $300, Greenville Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, the second prize of $150 and the Sharon Legion Drum and Bugle Corps the third prize of $50.

So keen was the competition, that Tarentum protested the decision of the judges. So far the judges have announced no change.

The competing corps and the time that they drilled maneuvered and played, also the position that they had in the competition follows: Sharon Legion Corps, fourteen minutes; Tarentum Legion Corps, thirteen minutes; Greenville Legion Corps, 12 minutes; Bradford V. F. W. Corps, 14 minutes; Sharpshooters Legion Corps, 9 minutes; McKeesport Corps, thirteen minutes.

Judges in the competition were as follows: Major W. F. Jackson, cadence; Colonel Daniel McQuiston, New Wilmington, general appearance; Lieutenant P. A. Welsh, marching ability; Lieutenant J. W. Thompson, maneuvering; Lieutenant A. G. Angros of Prieberg, Pa. bugles, and Pete Weyrick, drums.

Fruit and vegetable canneries in Italy are now operating on full time.
